Inflationary surge worst in 25 years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising prices for food, clothing and mortgage rates pushed the cost of living up another 1.2 per cent in September, making the last 12 months the worst inflationary surge in more than 25 years, the government reported today.

Prices in September were reported 12.1 per cent higher than a year earlier. This was the worst 12-month increase since 1947.

However, the purchasing power of the average worker increased slightly for the first time in three months. Real spendable earnings—that is weekly pay adjusted for inflation and taxes—rose onetenth of a per cent in September but was still at the lowest level since December 1970.

Price increases were spread across almost the entire economy last month. Food led the way, posting its biggest rise since February.

The Ford administration has predicted that consumer prices will continue increasing at the rate of about one per cent a month through the end of the year, and that there would be no significant easing of inflation until some time next year.

Consumer prices have already risen 9.7 per cent so far this year. In 1973, prices rose 8.8 per cent, the worst in any year since the end of World War II.

The Labor Department said last month's 1.2 per cent increase, after a rise of 1.3 per cent in August, pushed the government's consumer price index up to 151.9. That meant it cost $151.90 to buy a variety of goods and services that cost $100 in the 1967 base period.

Although most of the news was bad, some prices declined in September, including such items as gasoline and fresh fruits and vegetables.

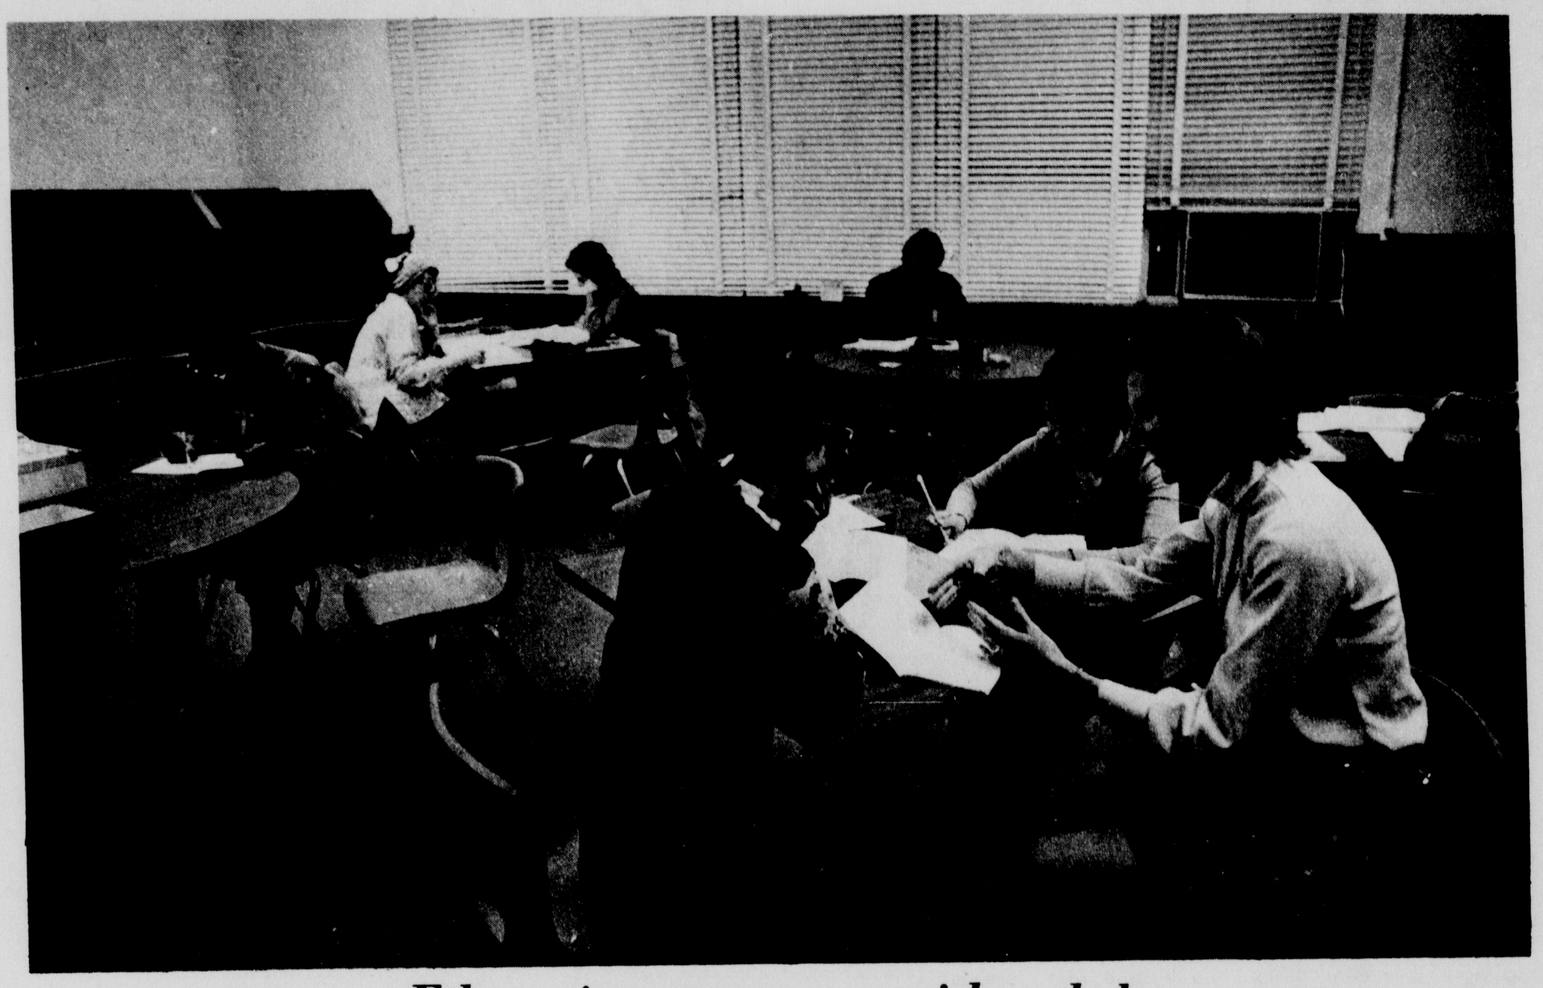
Over-all food prices went up an adjusted 1.9 per cent in September compared to a 1.4 per cent increase the previous month. The index for nonfood commodities increased 1 per cent following an August rise of 1.5 per cent while the cost of services rose 1.1 per cent, the same as in August.

With the exception of fresh fruits and vegetables, all major food categories went up last month, pushing grocery prices 1.5 per cent higher over the month to a level 10.9 per cent above a year ago.

Beef and pork prices were reported up instead of declining and poultry prices, which usually are unchanged in September, also rose. Dairy products increased for the first time in four months while prices of fats and oil products continued to climb sharply.

Higher clothing prices accounted for about a fourth of the 1.1 per cent rise in nonfood commodities. New car prices increased slightly instead of declining substantially as they usually do at the end of the model year.

Charges for most household services increased with gas, electricity and telephone rates rising. There was a rise in mortgage interest costs, reflecting earlier increases in interest rates on conventionally financed loans as well as the previously announced rate increase for VA-guaranteed loans, which accounted for more than a fourth of the increase in the cost of services last month.



Education program aids adults

Starting Oct. 28, the Adult Learning Center at Lincoln School will be open daily from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights from 6:30 to 9:30. Ellen Linnemeyer, right, Director of Adult Basic Education, spent part of Monday night's session working with Luy Williams, left, and Hoa Fesler, center. Both women are from Vietnam and are using the education program to study toward United States citizenship. The program is free to all adults who do not have a high school education. Students work on a variety of subjects at their own rate of learning.

1 killed, 2 injured in Campbell blast

CAMPBELL-- A St. Louis man was killed and two Dexter men were injured in an explosion that leveled a Campbell service station early Monday morning at the intersection at state highway 53 and county road HH.

The Martin Oil Co. service station, which is being operated by Dale Self of Campbell as Self's Trailway Service, was destroyed by the blast, which occurred at about 2 a.m. Monday.

Campbell Police Chief Clyde Jacques said the explosion was comparable to an earth tremor in force. Campbell Patrolman Albert Moore said the blast could be heard for 10 miles.

About 4 p.m. Monday, Campbell patrolman David Moore found the body of Jerry Pinnon, 34, of St. Louis, in the debris of the blast site. Pinnon had been missing since the blast, and until the body was found, police had been checking local and St. Louis hospitals for him. His wife identified the remains.

Missouri Highway Patrol Sgt. Donald Shelton said Monday that two other persons were injured in the blast. Herman Pinnon, 56, of Dexter was taken to Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff. He was treated for burns and a broken leg and is listed in good condition. William Wayne Pinnion, 36, also of Dexter, was taken to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis for treatment for severe burns. He is listed in critical condition.

Shelton said the elder Pinnon told authorities that he, his son Jerry, and his nephew Wayne, had been riding in a pickup truck that overheated. They had pulled into the driveway of the closed service station to get water for the radiator of their vehicle. They had gotten out of the truck when they noticed a small fire in the station office. Pinnon said the next thing he knew, "the whole place blew up."

The explosion scattered concrete block and debris onto the highway, blocking traffic until Campbell firemen and volunteer crews could clear the road.

Campbell Police Chief Clyde Jacques said the cause of the fire and explosion had not been determined, but arson had not been ruled out. The station had been closed Sunday.

Sgt. Shelton said investigators are awaiting the arrival of a bomb and arson specialist from Jefferson City to assist them in determining the cause of the blast.

The body of Jerry Pinnon of St. Louis was found in the rubble of Self's Trailway Martin Service Station in Campbell following an explosion early Monday. Authorities are still investigating the cause of the blast.

Jaycees oppose housing

CHAFFEE-- Dwayne Bryant, president of the Chaffee Jaycees, told the City Council Monday night that the Jaycees wanted to go on record as opposing any further public housing in Chaffee.

Bryant said the Jaycees are against a proposal to build an additional 50 units of public housing in the southern part of the city.

The council reversed a previous decision to pave the approaches to Dame Bridge on South Main Street with concrete, deciding to pave with asphalt instead.

The council approved the permanent employment of Police Chief James Coats who had completed his probationary period. All city employes are put on a six-month probationary period when they are hired.

2 of 4 ambulances arrive at hospital

Two of four ambulances ordered by Missouri Delta Community Hospital arrived in Sikeston during the night, according to David Bartlett, director of ambulance services.

However, the ambulances will not be ready for service until at least next week, he said.

Two- way radios must be installed in the vehicles and the man who will do the installation is out of town until Thursday, he said. The installation will take two days, he added.

Bartlett said the other two ambulances the hospital ordered may arrive in Jefferson City Wednesday.

The hospital has been renting an ambulance and using another which was donated to provide service to the area. Most funeral homes stopped providing ambulance service during the summer because of a new state law making it more difficult to operate the service.

A press release issued today by the hospital says hospital ambulance drivers have discovered that many motorists do not observe the law which requires them to yield the right of way to emergency vehicles.

"This not only endangers the lives of those in the emergency vehicle but also the life of the offender," the release states.

State law requires motorists to pull over to the right and stop when approached or overtaken by an emergency vehicle using a flashing red light or siren.

Dexter told FAA lacks funds for airport plan

DEXTER-- Mayor Willis Conner told the City Council Monday night that the Federal Aviation Administration has informed him that it has run out of program funds to implement the comprehensive airport plan developed under the airport board.

He said this does not affect the formation of the master plan itself which had already been funded, but only in the carrying out of the plan.

At an earlier meeting the board had authorized the Sikeston architectural firm of Buchmueller, Whitworth and Foust, Inc. to draw up the plans for improvement. Funding for the plan was to come from the federal government as well as the state.

The council passed a resolution at Monday night's meeting allowing Mayor Conner to sign an agreement with the state to let the state pay one- sixth of the cost of the development of the plan.

In a letter to Conner, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton verified the Federal Aviation Administration report that federal funds for the program have been depleted.

"At least we're ready to go if we ever do get the money," Alderman Jack Smarr said in reference to the already funded development plan.

"We're still on the active list," Conner said, explaining that Dexter is still eligible for the funds if and when they become available.

A citizen told the council Monday night that it had misunderstood a request to place no parking signs at the corner of Catalpha and St. Francis streets.

"The request for those signs had nothing to do with any church," R. M. Mudisill said. "It's just that parking on that corner is unsafe."

At a previous meeting the board had considered a request for the no parking signs, but rejected it after being told that it had been made for the benefit of a church group.

"It would set a bad precedent," Alderman Doren Vancil had said at the earlier meeting, and the new interpretation did not change his mind.

"I've been by that corner," Vancil said, "and I stand by what I said earlier. It would set a bad precedent. Before you know it we'd have to put up no parking

Hearing Tuesday on port

BENTON-- The Scott and Cape Girardeau county port authorities will meet jointly at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Cape Girardeau for a public hearing concerning a proposed regional port authority, according to Les Lankford, presiding judge of the Scott County Court.

The hearing, before John Brawley, chairman of the State Department of Transportation, will decide whether the project will receive state approval.

If the state approves the project, Lankford said an engineer will be hired to find the best port location along the diversion channel in Scott County. There are several possible locations along the channel, Lankford said.

Lankford added that he hopes local business and government leaders will attend the public hearing, which will be held at the

Correction

The account of a traffic accident near Matthews was incorrectly reported in Monday's editoon of The Daily Standard.

The accident occurred at 7:50 p.m. Sunday on Highway 80 two miles east of Matthews when a westbound car driven by James Bostic, 68, of Sikeston overtook and struck the back of another westbound car driven by Jean Whittington, 46, of East Prairie.

Monday's article erroneously stated that the Whittington car struck the back of the Bostic car.

Torres arrested for theft of motorcycle

George Torres, 28, of Halfway Trailer Court was arrested at his home at 10 p.m. Monday for the theft of a motorcycle from Hick's Motorcycle Shop, 512 E. Center St.

The motorcycle, valued at $359, was taken in a burglary between 5:30 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Monday.

Detective Dan Hinton said the motorcycle was recovered by Cape Girardeau police at a service station where it had been stored.

Hinton, Detective Sgt. Jack Patterson and Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman made the arrest.

Hidden marijuana found

CHARLESTON-- A plastic bag containing between one and two pounds of marijuana was found Monday morning hidden in the woods in the Big Lake area north of Charleston.

Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom, who is conducting the investigation, said today the marijuana was found after an anonymous tip was received that gave the location of the marijuana.

A HYMN TO CITY LIFE

Despite the fact that churchgoers in America are overwhelmingly urbanites, the hymns they sing each Sunday morning that have environmental references are mostly rural in nature, according to Dr. Stephen Stephan, professor emeritus of sociology at the University of Arkansas.

Analyzing hymns from several books used by different denominations, he found that the verses are "replete with rural thought forms and imagery."

For example, of 72 hymns in The Methodist Hymnal that contain environmental references, 66 are rural in nature and contain environmental references, 66 are rural in nature and only six urban. Much the same ratio is found in the 1956 hymnal of the Southern Presbyterian and (Northern) United Presbyterian Churches. Even in the hymn book used by many Unitarian churches, the rural emphasis is pronounced.

Stephan's research, showed that "the more fundamentalistic and 'old timey' the hymn books are, the more rural is the imagery". He points out that many urban worshippers, particularly in fundamentalist faiths, have been uprooted from rural heritages in recent years. The hymns may assuage their feelings of alienation and loneliness.

Another reason for the emphasis on rural themes is a bias against city and urban life growing from the early-day association of rural areas with "the good life" and of cities with that which is bad — sin, vice, poverty, crime and the more recent ills of pollution, noise, waste and ugliness.

Hymns are more than just the music of the church, says Stephan. Rather, they reinforce what he terms "the teaching ministry." He suggested that the ecological movement could benefit from new hymns that are "relevant to modern urban man."

THE ENVIRONMENT AND PRICE CONTROL

With the nation plunging into a morass of controversy over wage and price controls, the public has suddenly found a new interest on which to center its attention — and just as if somebody had switched off a searchlight, the actors performing on the stage of ecology and the environment have been left in the dark.

This does not mean that the issues of environmental preservation are any less pressing or authentic. What it does mean is that we may have passed through the era of environmental faddism. Headline hunting, political crusaders have found another horse to ride, at least for the time being. The odds are good that the battle of controls, which is far closer to the immediate pocketbook interests of consumers, will be a star attraction for sometime to come. The question is: Will the new preoccupation with hiding inflation by fiat make allowance for the costs of advancing and applying the technology of pollution abatement. Environmental extremism was always a luxury as are most fads, but genuine, long- range environmental programs are a necessity. Long after the issue has left the headlines, major industries are bound, by law and a sense of moral responsibility, to move ahead as rapidly as possible toward land, air and water conservation.

The price tag on these efforts will be high, both for the public and the industries involved. How will the bureaucracy that must be called upon to enforce wage and price controls view the environment issue when it is no longer in the spotlight as a public fad? Will the billions of collars spent for research in the development of pollution - free autos, power plants, oil refineries and manufacturing concerns of all kinds be recognized as a necessary business expense that must be passed on to consumers in higher prices?

TATTOOED ARTICLES
A BURGLAR'S BANE

Burglary is still the No. 1 crime in America. Some 2½ million burglaries are committed every year — about one every 13 seconds — for an estimated loss of more than $722 million.

Only about one in every five burglaries is solved. Of the relatively small percentage of stolen goods that police recover, a large share can't be identified and is eventually put up for public sale. This lack of positive identification of stolen property also makes it difficult to obtain convictions for breaking and entering.

"Operation Identification," a protection program sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Agents (NAIA), is a plan to put the thieves out of business. It simply involves personalizing or branding portable belongings with the owner's personal identification number. Electric engraving pens are available at no cost through the local offices of NAIA members across the country.

After branding their property, participants in Operation ID put decals on windows and doors reading, "All items of value on these premises have been marked for ready identification by law enforcement agencies."

The idea is that, being forewarned, burglars won't usually break in for any good burglars knows that marked items are not only hard to fence but offer police hard evidence for a conviction and are, therefore, an invitation to jail.

The results, where the program has been put into operation, have been dramatic.

In the Cincinnati area, for example, in one year's time there were 12,000 burglaries in 125,000 non-Operation Identification homes. During the same period there were only 10 burglaries in the 17,000 homes participating in the program.

Wichita, Kans., reports 5,553 burglaries in 90,000 homes. But of the 20,000 homes involved in Operation ID, only four were burglarized and of these four, only six marked items were taken and three of them were subsequently recovered.

Operation Identification thus has three functions, it deters burglaries, traces stolen property and helps prosecute thieves. It also helps keep down spiraling insurance costs.

Currently, about 1,000 cities are participating in the program.

CANCER CAN ALTER
WORLD HISTORY

Most of us think of cancer as a disease that chiefly affects our own personal lives or those of our immediate family or friends.

Last week however, when the wife of the President of the United States contracted it, the fact was brought home to many of us that it can and may affect not only all Americans but the world. If Mrs. Ford's illness should continue, there is a distinct possibility that President Ford will not be a candidate for reelection, as he has said he would in such a case possibly retire from public office, preferring to look after his wife's health rather than be President, or even a candidate for the office.

Like others, President Ford can of course be replaced. There has never been an "indispensible" man or woman. But any changes in our leadership can easily alter national and world history, whether for better or worse.

It is something for all of us to consider, and further emphasizes the need for every American to do everything possible to conquer the disease, and to keep it out of our own lives.

TV HAZARDS

The U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission plans to impose safety standards for all TV sets sold in this country. Meantime, the Commission has these recommendations for guarding against fire or electrical shock:

Never leave a set on when you depart from the house, or even when you are out of the room for more than a short time.

Unplug the TV and disconnect lead-in wires from an outside antenna when you go on vacation. That will avert possible fire from lightning storms or power- line surges. But don't unplug the set every time you stop watching. That may damage the cord -- creating another fire hazard.

If your set has "instant on" but not an "instant-on defeat switch," you should plug the set into an outlet controlled by a wall switch -- so the "instant-on" feature cannot continue to pour power into the set when it's not in use. Be sure to turn the wall switch on before turning the set on and turn the TV of before turning the wall switch off -- to avoid overloading the extra switch.

Warn children not to push or drop anything into the cabinet because of the danger of electrical shock.

Make sure ventilation openings are clear. Don't push sets up against walls or furniture, or let newspapers or drapes block the vents. Otherwise, heat can built up inside the cabinet and cause a fire.

Never clean the screen when the set is on, or put containers of water or other liquid on top of the cabinet. Water can cause short circuits, with fire and shock risks. If your set does get damp or wet -- say from rain when it's left on a porch -- pull the plug and have the whole thing inspected by a repairman.

In case of unusually loud or constant snapping or popping noise, unplug the TV and have it checked. Have the cord checked, too.

When parts are replaced, have the serviceman verify that they have the same safety features as the originals.

If a fire does start: unplug the TV. Call the fire department. You can attempt to put out the fire with a dry chemical fire extinguisher. But never use water, because of the danger of shock.

Even among protitues there is a morality of sorts, and so when the harlot of the harlots met with her companions one morning and told them about her experiences the night before, none of them were very impressed.

Finally, the scarlet sister threw in the clincher.

"I was out with a rich playboy last night," she bragged, "and for just 15 minutes of my time he gave me $500. What do you think of that?"

Colonel Sam S. Smith, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today commented on the proper use and adjustment of headlights.

"It is dangerous to blind the driver you are following or approaching with your headlights," Smith noted. "Many nighttime traffic accidents have been caused by the temporary blindness of drivers, resulting from their exposure to the strong light. It is for that reason drivers should dim their headlights when following within 300 feet of another vehicle or when within 500 feet of an oncoming vehicle as required by law."

The Patrol Superintendent stated that improperly adjusted headlights are also a hazard to drivers at night. He pointed out that low beam lights often project higher than they should and these lights appear to be on high beam. This makes it difficult for oncoming drivers to see. He suggested that when approaching drivers flash their headlights as a signal for you to dim and you are already on low beam, it is a sure sign that your lights need attention.

"Improper use and adjustment of headlights contribute to the hazards of night driving," Smith concluded. "Drivers can help insure their safety on the highways at night by regular inspection of their headlights and by using them as specified by law."

TEN YEARS
LATER

It was 10 years ago that Nikita S. Khrushchev bowed out as the strong man of the Soviet Union. The old communist had shaken his nation, and the world, by denouncing Stalin and the Stalin rule. There were even feeble hopes in the free world that the communist regime of Russia might shed its secrecy and abandon its world- wide policy of political and military subversion. It wasn't to be. Khrushchev would later use his shoe to pound the table during a nasty personal demonstration in the United Nations headquarters. He was arrogant when he announced giant nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, and he hinted that Soviet space accomplishments could be converted to overpowering military use.

Khrushchev's bluster began to run out, however, when his hand was called by the U.S. on the stationing of giant military missiles on secret Cuban bases. He suffered the pangs of disgrace when he had to take the missiles out under the inspection of the U.S. Navy (It was that or face nuclear war.) Later he would be ousted by the political clout of Leonid I. Brezhnev.

During the 10 years since Khrushchev's fall from power, U.S. — Soviet relations have improved slightly. The threat of Russian communism did not go away with Khrushchev, however. The Soviets have gained in military strength and their efforts at world- wide subversion persist. Any relaxation on the part of Americans in maintaining strong defenses would be fatal. Brezhnev and his colleagues are still dedicated to the doctrine of Lenin which is world domination and our destruction. HLH

A LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT

Dear Mr. President,

I'm having a helluva time. I watched you on television the other night while waiting to see the World Series, and your message really got to me. Ever since I heard you tell us that the best way to fight inflation was not to spend money and not to waste anything, I've been trying to follow your advice with very questionable results.

For example, the next morning I went down to the supermarket and bought some soup bones. I made the mistake of telling the butcher I wasn't going to buy any steak until the price came down.

That evening I received a visit from two members of the cattleman's association who said they had heard about what I said in the supermarket, and they wanted me to know that they were having the worst year in their history and if I didn't give a damn about the food industry in this country, they wouldn't give a damn about me. I explained to them that you had said the only way to fight inflation was to live within my budget -- and you know what they did? They shot two steers in the head on my front lawn. It cost me $89.50 to have the carcasses carted away.

The next day I had a call from an automobile dealer who told me the new models had just arrived at the showroom and advised me to come down right away. I told him that, because of your plea in Kansas City, I decided to forego the luxury of a 1975 car until the economy was straightened out.

An hour later three officers of the United Auto Workers Union broke into my office and asked me what I thought I was doing. I told them the car I owned was prefectly satisfactory, and I really didn't need a new car. Well, you should have heard what they said, Mr. President. They accused me of creating unemployment in the most important industry in America and shouted that if everyone thought the way I did we would have the greatest depression in the history of the country. I tried to calm them down by pointing out that everyone in this country had to bite the bullet -- but they were so infuriated, they threw a chair through my window, which cost me $56 to replace.

Well, I got home that night and had a visit from Richard Kaltenborn who works in a children's clothing store. Richard had just been laid off from the store because no one was buying clothing. Ever since your message, they haven't sold two pairs of jeans. The store told Richard if people started buying again, he would be rehired. The reason he came to see me is that he was strapped for cash and asked if I could loan him $400. I had no choice but to loan him the money since we handn't bought children's clothing ourselves, and I felt responsible for Richard's unemployment.

Just as Richard left I received a call from Mr. Rumstead who owns the local theater. He wanted to know if I was coming down to see "The Great Gatsby" that night. I said no, we weren't, because we were fighting inflation.

"That does it," he said. "I'm closing the theater for good."

Because the kids have no movie theater to go to any more, they're now hanging around the house with their friends, and it has cost me $45 for beer and pretzels alone.

Of course, we're not going to go near a store for Christmas, as that is really throwing money down the drain. Somehow the newspaper I work for found out about it, and I got a call from the advertising department. The man said if we're not going to buy anything for Christmas, they're not going to get advertising and they won't be able to pay me for the column. I'll be very frank with you, Mr. President, this could put me in a class with my friend Kaltenborn.

But this is neither here nor there. What I'm really writing to you about is, could I please have my WIN flag to fly over my house, because I want everybody to know how easy it is to fight inflation? -- Economically yours, A.B.

Mafia Runs Out: Powerful Black mobsters in Atlanta Muscle old-line combines from South

ATLANTA — Once the sullen Ku Klux Klan here tried to pull a white hood over the capitol's gray dome. I remember it well. Those wool hats bounced me like a yo-yo off the marble (that's what it felt like) floor of the rotunda.

But these days this fabulous town, which sprouts overnight like bamboo in Bali, is different. When one talks of "the mob," one means organized crime -- and it's black, not white.

Which means this now seething southern Babylon has come of age, what with its professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey teams. And gambling. And construction. And service "industries." And unions, some of which are being probed by branch offices of bigger federal anti- crime units based in Miami and New Orleans.

Atlanta, say some knowledgeable law and order anti- racketeering men, federals and locals alike, is a sort of New York south. What made New York the "grand-Godfather" of the organized crime operators were the professional sports, the stadiums, the unions and the newly arrived immigrants.

Thus, a tough "Irishman" Owney Madden ran a mob. Arnold Rothstein was the first financier of world narcotics buying rings. Lepke Buchalter and Gurah Shapiro ran Murder, Inc. Lanksy ran the Bugs and Meyer thugs, and Lucky Luciano worked the Unione Siciliano up into a thing called the Mafia.

No point going sociologist now. But tough black mobs have emerged and are operating in Brooklyn, Harlem and across the Hudson in New Jersey, Philadelphia, and Detroit, just to pick a few. This is the historical progression of the underworld.

It is natural that the black community would be exploited in newfound power centers -- yes, like Atlanta -- by blacks.

So it's organized crime here -- but with a difference. The Northern mobs, the so- called Mafia, just never could muscle in. And they tried. And some still try.

One of the earliest was the alleged National Commission member, reputed Godfather (Don) of the New England underworld, Ray Patriarca. Until he began doing time for conspiracy to murder, he reigned out of Procidence, R. I. -- which still has a mighty tough crew. It reaches into Boston. But when Patriarca sought new territory here in Atlanta some years ago, he never made it.

And then one of the reportedly top lieutenants of the so- called Joe Colombo, Sr., crowd (now shooting each other at a geometric rate in New York)tried for Atlanta. He made it. Right into the famed penitentiary. He's Carmine (The Snake) Persico, still, from his cell, leader of a force battling what's left of the Gallo mob.

Then a Chicago moblike "combination" tried. They came in with vending machines. They had some allegedly high city hall connections. But the incumbent mayor screamed. The federals moved in and the mob- linked men reportedly moved out. They couldn't get much support from the Chicago "organization." No "confirmed" strong Chicago boss. Even today the Chicago mob's Godfather mantle is up for bloody grabs.

Federal specialists on the Chicago underworld say the contenders for this heavy dividend paying dishonor are ancient Tony Accardo, Jack Cerone and Sam Giancana. The latter was in self- exile in Mexico for eight years. Then the authorities there booted him out last July 19. They deposited him in San Antonio. From there the FBI flew Sam to testify before a federal grand jury.

Federal anti- organized crime strike force probers say that among those who looked longingly on the "opened territory" in Atlanta is the alleged Louisiana Godfather, Carlos Marcello, whom the Justice Department officially refers to as a "New Orleans real estate developer." He couldn't get in.

Anyway he'll be busy in court during the early days of January 1975. He has been indicted by the federals on charges of allegedly violating anti- racketeering statutes by using threats of violence to gain control of a local (New Orleans) night club.

Gory story. But this isn't the spot for it. Sufficient to report that he couldn't move into the Atlanta territory either despite this tough reputation. The little fellow also once made the mistake of swinging at an FBI agent.

But what of the New York big time? Well, the Mafia families still do a brisk multi-million- dollar business there. Some of them are awaiting the legalizing of gambling casinos in New Jersey. But for the moment the competition for the place of The Chairman or the Godfather of Godfathers is fierce.

Federal agents who specialize in these matters believe that the strong man is ex-convict Carmine Galante. At 64 he was paroled from the Atlanta federal penitentiary last Jan. 24. Now he's consolidating some of the "families," it is reported. There's an uneasy truce, it is said, between him and Chairman of the Board (that's what they call it) Carlo Gambino, reputedly once the most powerful of labor racket chiefs. Further Galante did 12 years in Lewisburg and Atlanta and has no great desire to return. He's on parole.

So the black mobsters have it made in Atlanta. They're organized. But not to the degree of security and "family" loyalty as their Northern underworld prototypes. And, intelligently, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration spent real money to help the Georgia Organized Crime Prevention Council get rolling here in 1972.

So the more things change the more thay are the same -- organized crime just isn't the mark of shame of any one religion, race or nationality.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Supporting African Racism

WASHINGTON — The State Dept. has solemnly denied our story that Henry Kissinger's first tilt was toward the white supremacist nations of Southern Africa.

Although we had requested comment four days earlier, the State Dept. waited to respond until our story appeared. It "takes a little straining," said a spokesman, "to say we have tilted toward the white regimes of Africa."

This is precisely the comment our African policy documents called for. Kissinger personally selected as U.S. policy the second option in the secret National Security Memoriandum 39. The United States "would maintain public opposition to racial repression but relax political isolation and economic restrictions on the white states."

Kissinger changed American policy from "basic opposition" to "public opposition" toward racial repression in the white-ruled African countries. He changed the existing policy of "correct relations" to a "quiet" policy of more relaxed relations.

Previously, the United States had enforced a strict arms embargo against the white supremacists and kept official contacts to a minimum.

But after Kissinger changed the policy, the United States approved the sale of aircraft to South Africa; sold Portugal some Boeing 707s that were used to ferry troops to her white colonies; allowed Union Carbide to import chrome from Rhodesia; attempted to retain a consulate in Salisbury, Rhodesia; and vetoed more stringent sanctions against Rhodesia in the United Nations.

The State Dept., in all fairness, resisted the changes which were forced upon them by Kissinger's opposites in the basement of the White House. Kissinger was so disturbed at the State Dept., in fact, that he didn't trust them to communicate the new policy to South Africa. Instead, he took the extraordinary step of sending the message through an influential column in South Africa's Johannasburg Star.

"Out of the blue," the Star's Washington correspondent Ken Owen now reveals, "I was summoned to the Executive Office Building beside the White House and asked if I would use my regular column of comment on American affairs in the Star to convey a message directly to Pretoria (the South African capital)."

Owen told my associate Joe Spear that he spoke to a Kissinger aide who gave him a full briefing in the new policy. He was asked "to emphasize the necessity for Pretoria to respond in a manner which would protect President Nixon's flank from Black Africa, from Negro groups and from the professional anti-apartheid lobby."

Owen claimed that the State Dept.'s professionals regained the ascendance over African policy after Kissinger became absorbed by Middle East and Watergate.

The tilt toward the white regimes, he said, "still remains technically the American policy, but it has become a posture instead of a process."

FOOTNOTE: We have checked out Ken Owen's story with our own high- level sources who confirm its accuracy.

INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE: President Ford's barber, Milton Pitts, has sold him on a more modern look. Pitts sketched a proposed new hairline on a picture of the President in the Washington Post and showed it to Ford. The barber wanted to eliminate the shaved gap around the President's ears which went out of style a decade ago. Ford approved the sketch and is now growing a new hairline closer to the ears ... Consumer representative Carol Foreman startled President Ford at the secret White House session which spawned his new "Whip Inflation Now" program. "Mr. President," she confronted him, "you've asked us to reduce waste by five per cent, reduce driving by five per cent and increase taxes by five per cent. Could we ask the big oil companies to reduce their profits by five per cent in order to lower the cost of heating oil this winter so people won't freeze?" Ford bucked the suggestion to the ad hoc advisory group which rejected it ...

The photo spread of Susan Ford in People magazine has touched off a dispute between the White House and photographer Stanley Tretick. The famed photographer asked the White House for permission to do a photo story on the President's daughter. He was turned down, with the explanation that Susan wanted to keep a low profile while her mother was ailing. But the White House later sent the magazine a batch of pictures taken by the President's personal photographer, David Kennerley. This cut Tretick out of an estimated $1,200 and stuck the taxpayers with the photo bill. He fired off an angry letter of protest to White House press secretary Ron Nessen ... Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., dropped by the White House the other day and got into a discussion of the Michigan- Michigan State football game with President Ford. The President was completely familiar with the relative strength of both teams ... Diplomats who have called at the White House tell us that President Ford handles them with ease and confidence. He is well briefed, they say, and "shakes all the right hands" ... At a White House meeting, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto made the President beam happily by telling him that he had made "people feel he really cared."

Real Estate

By CHARLES MITCHELL

REALTOR

BOTH SIDES OF INFLATION

Owners of real estate invariably profit more than other investors during periods of inflation. But to be fair, it should be noted that inflation is a two-headed animal. What inflation gives, it also takes. Granted, rising costs tend to push the value of a home upwards.

But the expense of owning and living go up at the same time. Routine repair and maintenance costs are now climbing 5-10 per cent a year. Property taxes are edging up just as ominously. Insurance premiums increase also with the value of the house.

These expenses, however, are offset considerably by the deductions you're allowed for interest and property taxes on your income tax. Then too, you'll be paying off your home mortgage with cheaper dollars, assuming some inflation continues.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Mitchell is Past President of the Sikeston Board of Realtors and is currently serving as Vice- President of the Missouri Association of Realtors.)

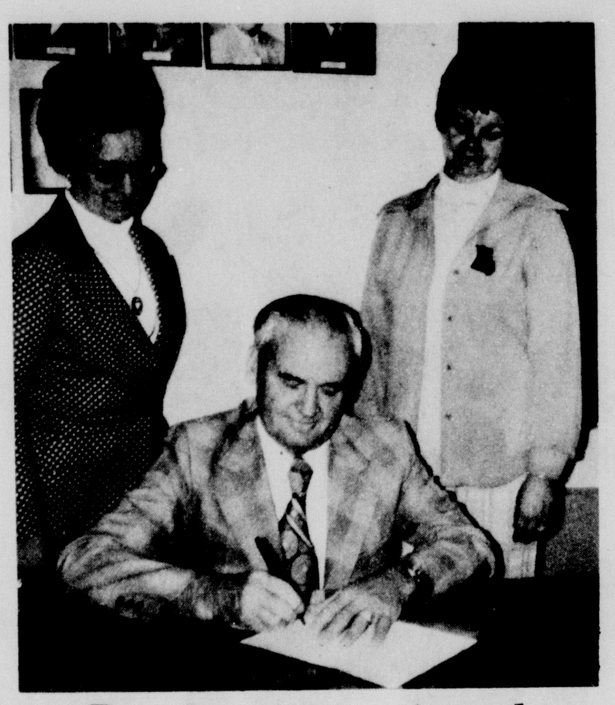
Business Women's Week noted

Mayor Frank Ferrell has joined other government officials in declaring this week to be National Business Women's Week.

The proclamation states that working women constitute 33 million of the nation's working force and are striving to serve their communities, their states and their nation in civic and cultural programs.

It lists the major goals of business and professional women as helping create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economic and political problems; helping them be of greater service to their community; and furthering friendship with women throughout the world.

In signing the proclamation, Mayor Ferrell urged all citizens in Sikeston and community organizations to join in the salute to working women by encouraging and promoting the celebrating of the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to economic, civic and cultural purposes.



Proclamation signed

Denim universally popular

BLOOMFIELD — From barnyard to office and stage, denim has made its place in the fabric world. Practically all Americans, regardless of age, income bracket, lifestyle, or occupation, seem to be wearing denim.

Denim has achieved universal popularity. Also, in 1973, one of the hottest items on the Moscow black market was a pair of denim jeans selling for as high as $75.

Legend holds that denim dates back to the 15th Century and that it has not made much change in for four centuries. Nothing could be further from the truth. Denim has experienced a host of changes from the fabric used in the sails of the Santa Maria and the denim which is styled into high fashion garments for the active woman of today or the navy herringbone suit of the businessman.

Jewel Grady

Denim now being the high fashion fabric it is, it is easy to see why it is produced at a rate of 400 million yards per year.

The finished denim fabrics found in the market places are canvas weave 13 3/4 ounces per yard, brush denim, faded chambray, railroad stripe and various yarn dyed denim fabrics.

Recycled denim items have also become popular among the teenagers. Everything from tossed pillows to tote bags made of old jeans are sold or handmade.

Denim has become an extraordinary bestseller in the fabric market.

Ann Landers

Bartender should 'knock off' dancing with customers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a bartender. I am not crazy about Jerry holding this kind of a job, but he enjoys it and makes good money. He works every day and two nights a week. Our children are grown and on their own, so the two nights he works I'm at home alone.

It seems that Jerry, just because he is employed at this place, thinks he is obliged to help all the customers have a good time. It came back to me through a friend that he often dances with the women who come in and on several occasions he has driven them home.

When I asked Jerry about this he admitted it. I then demanded to know why he didn't tell me himself. He said, "I knew you wouldn't like it and I didn't want to make you mad." I then said, "If you knew it would make me mad, why did you do it?" He answered, "Because it's my job to keept the customers happy."

We are at a standstill on this issue and it is creating a lot of trouble. Every time I bring up the subject (usually when he come home late and I think he has driven a lady customer home) we get into a fight.

Tell me, Ann Landers, am I wrong when I say he should behave like a 45- year- old married man and not be dancing with women who hang around bars and driving them home? He said, "Write to Annie. She's got good sense and will set you straight." So will you please be the judge? -- Crazy Or Not?

Dear Not Crazy: I know of no cocktail lounge where the bartenders are expected to dance with customers and furnish them with transportation. This is strictly Jerry's idea of "special hospitality."

Since he knows this is creating a problem in your marriage he should knock it off. And you can tell him Annie said so.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16- year- old girl who is scared to death. I don't go steady, but there's this one boy I like better than all the others. He is really neat but he has a warped sense of humor.

We live in a courtyard apartment on the ground floor. My bedroom is in the back and there's a very nice terrace and lily pond with shrubs and bushes. This nutty kid has been coming to my bedroom window at night, sometimes rather late, and making like he is trying to get in.

I've told him to cut the comedy before my parents catch him, but he thinks it is very funny. Last night I locked my window, pulled down the shade and drew the draperies. He kept hanging around, tapping on the window for almost half an hour.

Please tell me what to do to make him stop the foolishness. If he is caught I know my folks will give me orders never to see him again. -- Shaky Shelly

Dear Shell: Doesn't that clown realize he could be arrested as a Peeping Tom or even mistaken for a prowler and shot? For heaven's sake, tell him to cancel the alley cat act before he finds himself laughing all the way to the district attorney's office.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a bachelor, age 44, who is going with a woman, 39. Zelda has never been married and has a few hangups. For example, she has never had a complete physical examination. When I tell her she really should get a checkup she says, "Why should I? I feel fine and I'M never sick."

I know Zelda reads your column every day. Will you please say something? She might listen to you. -- Z's Friend

Dear Friend: A 39- year-old woman who has never had a complete physical must have oatmeal where her brains belong. I urge her (and others who are in the same leaky boat) to stop pressing their luck and make an appointment at once. If Zelda's hangup is what I think it is, please inform her that there are many female gynecologists.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 35 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope and your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

SHS tennis team upsets Poplar Bluff

Sikeston High School's girls tennis team upset a favored Poplar Bluff team, 7-4 Monday night, handing the visitors the second setback of the season in competition on the Sikeston High School and Central Park courts.

Only last Wednesday at Poplar Bluff, the Sikeston girls had been defeated by similar 7-4 margins. The next day at Kennett, the SHS girls played to a 5-5 draw with Kennett when play had to be halted because of darkness.

The SHS season record now includes two wins, four losses and one tie.

Coach Berta Schuerenberg attributed last week's loss at Poplar Bluff to the fact that the SHS girls apparently were intimidated. "They had heard before they went over that Poplar Bluff was good and had been beaten only once. They went over there expecting to get beat," she explained.

Only seven singles matches were completed Thursday at Kennett before darkness ended the match.

"After last week, I think the girls realized they were going to have to use a little strategy and start going to the net ... Everyone really played tennis Monday night," the Sikeston coach proudly reported.

Susan Drumm, a freshman, is the only SHS player still undefeated.

Lynn Bizzell, another freshman, was moved into the No. 1 singles position Monday night, replacing Jeannie Vines, a senior side lined this week by a shoulder injury.

Coach Schuerenberg reported that Miss Bizzell played a good match although the score doesn't show it. The SHS player was defeated Nancy Gray, 8-2. "Nancy Gray is probably the strongest high school girl tenniks player I've ever seen," the coach reported.

Marilyn Neel moved into the No. 2 position and responded by playing a better game and placing her shots better, the coach said.

Sikeston had two new doubles teams in competition Monday night and both won their matches. Coach Schuerenberg reported that Gail Strickland and Linda Green seem to get better everytime they play together and won an outstanding doubles match Monday. The other new team was composed of Cindy Davis and Dena Livingston.

Individual scores, with Sikeston players listed first, included:

Lynn Bizzell was defeated by Nancy Gray, 8-2; Marilyn Neel was defeated by Elaine Giambelluca, 8-4; Gail Strickland won over Teresa Emerson, 8-2; Cindy Davis beat Johnna Coats, 8-2; Melissa Lea was defeated by Kathy Stafford 8-4; Mary Sikes defeated Judy Emerson in a 5-2 tiebreaker; Susan Drumm won over Carla Crosser, 8-4; and Nancy Bohannon defeated Melinda Coleman, 8-2.

In doubles play, Lynn Bizzell and Melissa Lea lost to Miss Gray and Miss Giambelluca, 8-3; Gail Strickland and Linda Green beat Teresa Emerson and Johnna Coats, 8-6; and Cindy Davis and Dena Livingston beat Kathy Stafford and Carla Crosser, 8-2.

The Sikeston team travels to Caruthersville Thursday for its final dual match of the season at 4 p.m., then hosts the district girls tournament Saturday.

SHS meets Charleston tonight

Volleyball matches split

Sikeston High School's girls volleyball teams split their matches at Poplar Bluff Monday night, winning B-team competition in straight games, 15- 11 and 15- 2, and losing the A- team encounter despite winning the first game 15- 13, when Poplar Bluff rallied to win the next two, 15- 11 and 15- 10.

In the A- team match, the scoring was almost equally divided among the Sikeston players, but Coach Jane Merrick said today that the girls' serving and execution of pattenrs were not up to par.

In the B- team match, the Sikeston girls made effective use of offensive patterns to good advantage.

Debbie Schuette was the leading scorer for the SHS B-team. During the first game seven points were gained while she was serving and 11 points were gained during her service in the second game. Pam Weddington contributed several good set- passes which set up good spike shots.

Sikeston will play Charleston tonight in a match starting at 6:30 at the Sikeston Field House.

Homemakers extension club formed in Wyatt

WYATT — A meeting was held on Oct. 16 at the home of Mrs. Bill Feezor for the purpose of organizing a homemakers extension club in the Wyatt area.

Helping Hands Homemakers Extension Club was the name chosen for the new group. Meetings will be held in the homes of members on the third Wednesday of each month at 1 p.m.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 20 at the home of Mrs. Terry Brantley, Route Three. At that time, officers will be elected and yearbooks will be filled out. Dues will be collected.

A program on poisons in the home will be presented by Mrs. Tom Boulnois.

Refreshments were served to the four members, Mrs. John Moxley, Mrs. Brantley, Mrs. Boulnois, and Mrs. Feezor, who were asked to invite at least one person to attend the next meeting.

Anyone in the Wyatt area interested in joining the new extension club may contact Mrs. Brantley by phone at 675-3275 or Mrs. Feezor at 675-3509.

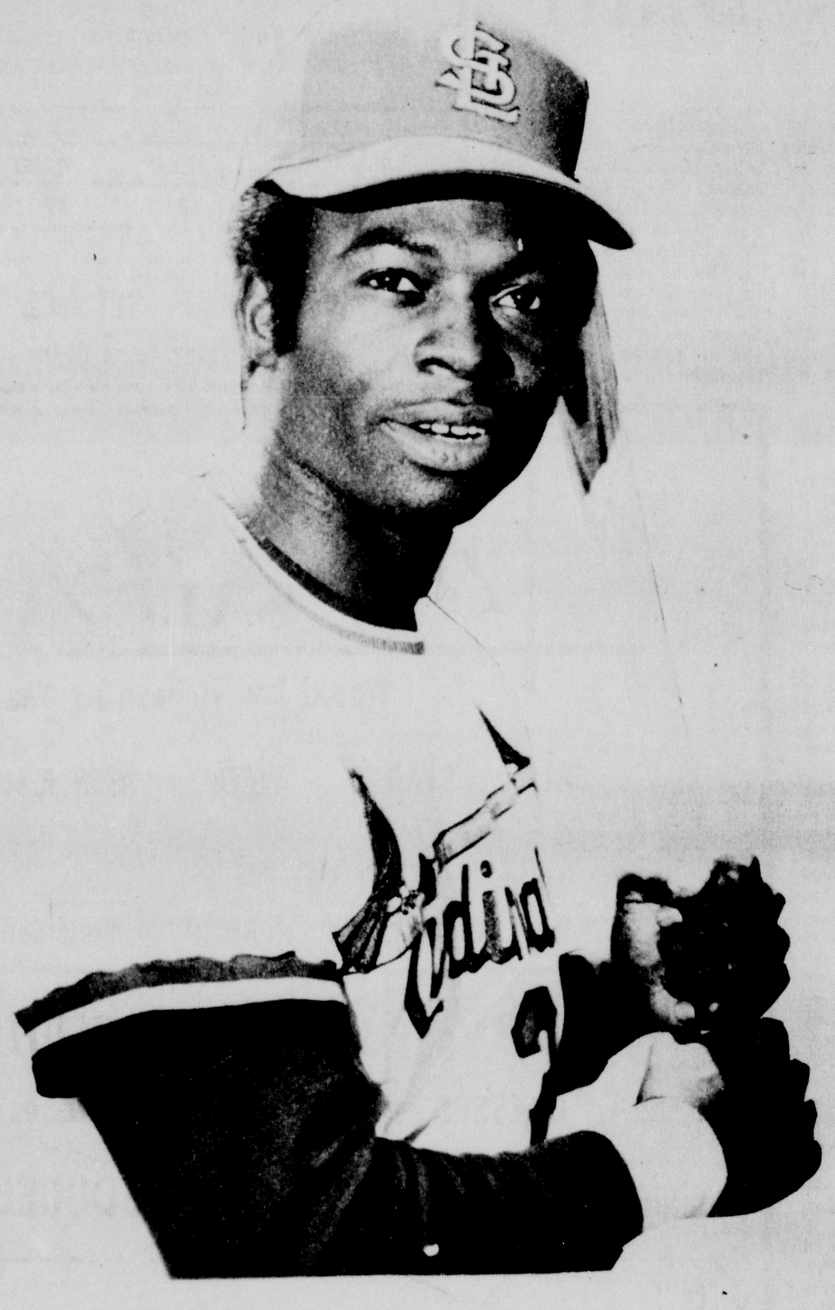
Brock...AP All-star



NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Brock slid in safely on The Associated Press' 1974 Major League All-Star baseball team.

Picking up the most votes of the outfielders with 290, the St. Louis Cardinals' base-stealing wonder was among the classy group voted in Monday by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Brock, who broke Maury Wills' distinguished record of 104 steals with 118 this season, was joined in the outfield by Oakland's Reggie Jackson and Jeff Burroughs of Texas.

Jackson polled 218 votes while Burroughs had 194 to make the blue ribbon team ahead of such illustrious names as Jimmy Wynn of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta's Ralph Garr, the National League's batting champion.

The major battles in the voting took place at shortstop and for the right-handed pitcher's berth.

Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion won the shortstop position over Bert Campaneris of Oakland, 173 votes to 133.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers was named the team's right-handed pitcher, outdueling Catfish Hunter 159117. Nolan Ryan, the California Angels' strikeout king, finished a distant third with 53.

Along with his phenomenal exploits that broke Wills' record, Brock's season included a .306 batting average, 105 runs scored and 194 hits.

Jackson blasted 29 home runs, knocked in 93 runs and batted .289 for the A's while Burroughs had his finest season at Texas with 25 homers, 118 RBI and a .301 batting average.

Concepcion drove in 82 runs and batted .281 for the Reds. Jenkins, a former 20-game winner in the National League, had a 25-12 record for the Rangers and boasted a 2.82 earned run average while striking out 225 batters. Cuellar won 22 games and lost but 10 for Baltimore while posting a 3.11 ERA.

Garvey, a landslide victor over Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox, 273 to 76, batted .312 while hitting 21 home runs and driving in 111 runs. Carew, the majors' best hitter with a .364 average, also was the American League's best vote-getter with 306.

Schmidt drove in 116 runs and hit 36 homers for the Phillies. Bench blasted 33 homers and knocked in 129 runs to finish far ahead of the field at his catching position.

Hayti makes poll

Illmo- Scott City climbed to fourth and Hayti made its first appearance among the elite of the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association state football rankings this week. Both are in 2-A.

There was some shifting in the rankings this week, but the top rated teams maintained their hold on the lead in all four divisions.

Rockhurst fell from second in Class 4-A to seventh after absorbing a 14-13 weekend loss to Columbia Hickman. Hickman jumped from seventh to fifth in the poll.

Six previously unranked teams -- Oak Park in 4-A, St. Louis Country Day and Kansas City Manual in 3-A, Hayti and Pleasant Hill in 2-A and Drexel in 1-A appeared among the top 10 in their divisions this week.

The top 10 in each division in the poll, conducted by the MSWSCA.

THE RANKINGS:

CLASS 4A: St. Louis Sumner, Raytown South, St. Louis Southwest, Ladue, Columbia Hickman, McCluer North, Rockhurst, St. Louis Parkway West, Kandas City Center and Oak Park.

CLASS 3A: Washington, Boonville, St. Pius, Houston, Nevada, Columbia Rock Bridge, Cameron, St. Louis Chaminade, St. Louis Country Day and Kansas City Manual.

Bulldog gridders pile up wins

The Varsity Bulldog's win over Dexter Friday night inspired the Junior Bulldog's to two victories Saturday over the Poplar Bluff Mules Junior teams.

The ninth grade Bulldog's scored in every quarter except the third which was fought evenly by both teams. In the first quarter tailback Don Schuette scored on a twelve yard run up the middle. David Potashnick ran over the two point conversion. Later in the quarter Mike Dewitt the Bulldog quarterback sneaked the ball across the goal from five yards out. Potashnick again ran the conversion over. Poplar Bluff came right back with a score before the quarter was over. The Mules scored on a twenty yard sweep. Point after was missed.

In the second quarter fullback Linsey Lambert scored for the Bulldog's on a one yard plunge. Run for extra point failed. Bluff ran their fullback up the middle and he scored on a thirty-eight yard run. Two point conversion good. Half time score. Bulldog's 22 Mules 14.

In the fourth Lambert again scored on a five yard run up the middle. Quarterback Dewitt ran the point after. Tailback Schuette scored later on a two yard play. Kick for point tried and missed. Bluff again scored and this time on a long run off tackle that covered 42 yards. Point after good. Final Bulldog's 36 Mules 22.

Eight grade football was played Saturday morning at Public School Stadium when the Poplar Bluff Mules invaded our area. The Mules following the winning ways of their varsity set back the Bulldog's 30-20.

In the first quarter Mule back Andre Jordan returned a Bulldog punt 65 yards to score. Randy Williams ran the two point conversion. Later in the quarter Fullback Williams of the Mules scored on a five yard plunge. The Mules Tom Meyer ran the extra point. 14-0 Mules.

In the second quarter Sikeston's Mark Heeb scored on a fifty yard counter play. Point after missed. Half Poplar Bluff 16 Sikeston 6.

The third quarter belonged to the mules. With fourth and six Mules punter received a high snap from center and was forced to run and made the first down. A Key play for Bluff since they took advantage of it and scored later in the drive when Tom Meyer went up the middle for a five yard score. Point after missed. Bluff's Andre Jordan intercepted a Sikeston pass on the Bluff forty and returned it sixty yards for the score. Williams ran the extra point over.

The fourth quarter saw the Bulldog's come alive. Bluff blocked a Sikeston punt but on their series of downs fumbled at midfield and Bulldog Rick Melton recovered. Sikeston drove and with three minutes remaining in the ballgame Sikeston's Alan Barborek scored from the one. Point after missed. The Mules fumbled on Sikeston's forty yard line and Bulldog Scott Walls picked it up and returned it to the Bluff five. Bulldog quarterback Jay Cox passed five yards to end Kerry Standridge in the end zone for the score. Cox again combined with Standridge for the two point conversion. Final Poplar Bluff 30 Sikeston 20.

The JV's of Al Holmes and Tom Horton took the Mules to the tune of 28-14. In the first quarter Bulldog halfback Paul Bean scored on a five yard run up the middle. Extra point missed. In the Second quarter Bulldog quarterback Gary Griffin scored on a quarterback sneak. Two point conversion good. Half score Bulldog 14 Bluff 0

Poplar Bluff scored twice in the third quarter but missed one conversion and ran the other over. Quarterback Griffin of Sikeston passed five yards to tight end Paul Gilbow in the end zone for a score. Two point conversion good. In the fourth quarter Bluff had to punt deep in their own territory and Sikeston blocked it and recovered in the end zone for a score. Point after missed. Final Sikeston JV's 28 Poplar Bluff 14

Cards face Skins Sunday at Busch

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The St. Louis Football Cardinals -- the only unbeaten team in the National Football League -- try for their seventh straight victory Sunday against one of their chief NFC Eastern Division challengers, the Washington Redskins. Kickoff in Busch Memorial Stadium is set for 1:05 p.m. (CST).

The Big Red stand 6-0 after holding off the surprising Houston Oilers, 31-27, last Sunday -- a day which saw the NFL's two other unbeaten teams, New England and Minnesota, go down to defeat. The Redskins, 24-3 winners ovrer the New York Giants, are 4-2, tied with Philadelphia for second place two games behind the Cardinals.

Dallas, which defeated the Eagles 31-24 at Dallas, is in fourth place with a 2-4 record and the New York Giants are 1-5.

This is the second meeting between the Big Red and Redskins and the stakes are obviously high. In the second week of the season, the Cardinals scored a 17-10 upset victory over the Skins in Washington, using big plays to big advantage.

The Cardinal points came on a 71- yard return of a fumble by defensive end Ron Yankowski, a 75- run from scrimmage by Terry Metcalf and a 46- yard field goal by Jim Bakken. With three minutes to play in the game, the Big Red defense held the Redskins on downs in a goal-to- go situation from the ten-yard line.

Against the Oilers, the Big Red defense permitted 459 total yards but coach Don Coryell's team held on for the victory. Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini completed 29 of 40 passes—for 354 yards.

The Big Red, however, outrushed the Oilers, 211-85 yards, with Terry Metcalf gaining 77 yards, Jin Otis 76 and Donny Anderson 58. Metcalf, whose 61- yard kickoff return late in the game helped the Big Red hold on to the win, had 141 yards in three kickoff returns.

Quarterback Jim Hart passed for 134 yards and two touchdowns in the game, both to wide receiver Earl Thomas for distances of 40 and six yards. Hart's 25 attempts pushed his career total to 2,067 -- a Cardinal record (old record 2,047 by Charley Johnson). Hart's 14 completions gives him 998 for his career.

Against the OIlers, the Big Red fell behind, 10-7, in the second quarter but rebounded for a 21-13 halftime lead. The margin was pushed to 31-13 with 12 minutes to play in the game before Houston made its stretch run which fell short. Despite the Oiler yardage total, the Big Red defense made several big plays. Cornerback Roger Wehrli, defensive tackle Bob Rowe and linebacker Pere Barnes recovered fumbles, and Barnes was credited with 12 unassisted tackles.

"It was a very important win over Houston," coach Don Coryell said. "The only way we're going to beat any team is with maximum effort on every play and from every players. I thought we would play a good game — and I don't know that we didn't."

The Redskin game is the first of four straight rugged encounters set for the Big Red, who must visit Dallas (Nov. 3), entertain Minnesota (Nov. 11), and visit Philadelphia (Nov. 17) in the next three weeks.

Pirates prevail

No. 1

The Perryville Pirates played host to Brentwood High of St. Louis County Saturday and sent the Eagles flying by the score of 14-7.

Perryville got on the scoreboard first when Rob Cissell scored on a three yard run after a sustained drive. Ken Dicus kicked the point after. In the second quarter the Pirates were stopped on the Brentwood 25. In the second quarter Brentwood had a fourth and eight and faked punted and gained a first down. They held their momentum and kept their drive alive and scored on a five yard run (option play) by Christenson. Conversion kicked and at the half it was a 7-7 game.

The third quarter was all defense as neither team could mount a drive. In the fourth quarter Brentwood fumbled and the Pirates Charley Kramer recovered. Perryville drove from there and scored when quarterback Darrell Niswonger sneaked it across. Dicus again converted and the Pirates were a 14-7 victor. Pirate halfback Rob Cissell gained 122 yards. Cissell has rushed for over 100 yards in every ball game this season. Perryville had 12 first downs to Brentwood's 8. Perryville rushed for 218 yards and Brentwood had 143.

Big victory for SeMo

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State University's first- year head coach, Jim Lohr, was probably happier Saturday afternoon than he has been any day since last January when he was chosen for the head coaching job.

And the mood Monday morning in the coaches' offices was definitely upbeat. The occasion for the joy was Southeast Missouri State's 39-20 victory over Southwest Missouri State University of Springfield, the pre- season pick to win the MIAA championship.

The win kept the defending- champion Indians in the running for the conference title after a disappointing 21-19 loss the week before to the University of Missouri – Rolla. Southeast Missouri State now has a 3-3 record this season.

"We've been improving every week," Lohr said Monday, "but out there Saturday we played the best I've seen any team play in many years."

Lohr continued, "After we graded the films, we didn't have one player with a bad game. Oh, we made some mistakes, but all had good overall games."

The Tribe coach heaped praise of his offensive backs, but he was also extremely pleased with the play of the offensive line, whose blocking was tremendous, he said.

Lohr was also encouraged that the Tribe overcame an early deficit and also came back in the fourth quarter when the momentum seemed to swing to the Bears.

"We knew Springfield was going to have success against us both ways," Lohr explained, "but we were able to come back and do the things that you really like to see a team do. It's the ability to come back that really proves at team is good."

With 12:09 left in the fourth quarter, Southwest Missouri State's Greg Lawson dashed 36 yeards for a Bear touchdown and David Kruse's successful point after attempt narrowed the Indians' lead to 26-20.

The Tribe was unable to move the ball after the kick-off and had to punt from the 11- yard- line. The Bears took possession on the Indians' 44 and moved to the 25 before the Tribe defense held.

Two plays later running back Anthony Wallace, a 5-11, 180- pound junior from West Palm Beach, Fal., broke three tackles and ran 73 yards for a touchdown.

Late in the final period the Indians "iced the cake" with another TD.

"Wallace has come close several times this year to breaking away," said Lohr and he predicted more of the same in the days to come from the former high school All-American who arrived at Southeast Missouri State by way of Indian Hills Community College in Centerville, Iowa.

This week end Southeast Missouri State travels to St. Joseph for its first game ever against Missouri Western. It will be an afternoon contest.

The Griffons have been victorious in only one of seven outings this season. They lost Saturday, 26-13, to Benedictine College of Atchinson, Kan.

Sports in brief

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) David A. Benjamin was named squash and tennis coach at Princeton University Monday.

Benjamin is a 1966 graduate of Harvard, where he was captain of the tennis team. Sine 1970 he has worked as a head tennis pro while pursuing a doctoral degree at Harvard.

Princeton's squas team tied for the national championship last spring and its tennis squad placed 16th at the NCAA championships.

LA ROMANA, Dominican Republic (AP) — The United States, with a team consisting of Cynthia Hill, Deborah Massey and Carole Semple, will open defense of its title today when golfers from 22 countries begin competition in the sixth Women's World Amateur Golf Team Championship at the Los Cajuiles course.

The U.S. won the title in 1972 in Buenos Aires with a team of Laura Baugh, Jane Bastanchury Booth and Marh Ann Budke.

The 6,212-yard, par-74 beachfront course was drenched by a brief but heavy rainstorm Monday which was accompanied by winds up to 50 miles per hour.

Your Chrysler-Plymouth Dealer presents for 1975 the new small Chrysler:

Cordoba
Smaller, but much endowed with great beauty and comfort. Soft carpeting, a finely detailed instrument panel, the thickly cushioned contour seats, the soft glow of five courtesy lamps. So very elegant, and surprisingly affordable.

and the new Small Fury:

Fury Sport
It's what a lot of people have been waiting for. With contemporary new styling, room for six, and the operating economy of our smallest Fury. And the price tag is easy to live with, too.

Hi—Previous day's high.
Lo—This morning's low.

Blanton elected to Missouri Press office

ST. LOUIS-- Joseph R. Snyder, co- publisher of the Gallatin North Missourian, was elected president of the Missouri Press Association at that organization's 108th annual convention October 18 in St. Louis.

Snyder succeeds Bill Williams, publisher of the Thayer News, in the post. He will assume the office on Jan. 1.

Other officers elected by the Association were: Robert Blosser, Jefferson City, first vice president; Charles L. Blanton III, Sikeston, second vice president; Mrs. Lorraine Ridings, Hamilton, secretary; and Peter V. McCoy, Marshall, treasurer.

Richard Bush, editor of the Neosho Daily News, was named to the Missouri Press Association board of directors.

John Henry Cox, publisher of the Rock Port Atchison County Mail, was elected National Newspaper Association representative for the Association.

Snyder, 56, has been co-publisher of the Gallatin weekly since 1951. A native of Kansas City, he worked as a carrier- salesman for the old Kansas City Journal- Post during high school, and later went to work as a copy boy for the Kansas City Star.

Drafted into the U.S. Army in November, 1941, Snyder served for four and a half years attaining the rank of captain as a press liaison officer on the staff of General Douglas MacArthur.

Snyder owned newspapers in Natoma, Kan., and Mountain Grove, Mo., before he was recalled for 17 months active military duty during the Korean War. He entered into a partnership with W. H. "Scout" Harrison on the Gallatin newspaper upon his release from duty.

Snyder is a past president of the Northwest Missouri Press Association and the Democratic Editors of Missouri, and is a member of the Kansas City Press Club and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Snyder and his wife, Katherine, are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Kathy Clancy of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Cindy Fessler of Macon.

Firemen called to trailer court

Firemen were called to the Ferrell Trailer Court Monday about 3 p.m. when they were told a trailer was burning.

Firemen said the blaze was only a grassfire and no damage was reported.

6 treated

Six accident patients were treated and released Monday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Brown fined

NEW MADRID — Perry Brown was fined $25 in Police Court this morning on a peace disturbance charge, according to Marshal Virgil "Flip" Dees.

State fuel agency to be revamped

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Fuel Allocation Board, a stop-gap agency set up to meet the energy crisis last winter, will be revised, expanded and transferred to a new state department.

It will go to the Department of Natural Resources from the state Public Service Commission, Gov. Christopher S. Bond and natural resources director James L. Wilson said Monday.

Wilson recently was named chairman of the Missouri Energy Council, a citizen's advisory group which recommended establishment of the allocation board.

Bill Atchley, chairman of the 22-member energy council, is expected to remain on the council. He is the governor's science advisor.

Charles Valier, the governor's legislative aide, is drafting a new executive order assigning the allocation board to Wilson's department. Wilson said the changeover probably will be completed by January.

The public service commission's primary job is regulation of utilities. Its new role in the energy and gasoline allocation field last winter drew the PSC into a legislative controversy over bills to give it, the revenue department or a separate commission, authority to monitor and inventory fuel supplies. The bills failed.

The workload of both the allocation board and energy council has decreased with the easing of the fuel shortage, and Wilson said, "we can put it to use in other areas, like research," during slack times.

Reorganization of state government also made it logical to change the makeup of the allocation board, Wilson said, because some of the current members are now directors of agencies that have been made subordinate to other agencies.

"The biggest source of energy is from minerals — natural resources," Wilson said in discussing why the state's energy efforts were assigned to his department.

He also noted that there are proposals in Washington to change the name of the Department of Interior to the Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

The emphasis also is being switched from technical services to administration, wilson said.

"The governor recognized that there were six or seven different departments engaged in energy in one form or another," he said. "Much of the research is going to have longrange impact rather than shortrange."

Wilson, formerly the state parks director, said he has suggested that six department directors make up the allocation board and serve on the energy council.

They will be Wilson; Commissioner of Administration Robert James; Agriculture Director James Boillot; Alfred Sikes, director Consumer Affairs, Regulation, and Licensing; Revenue Director James Spradling, and Public Safety Director Michael Garrett.

The change removes transportation representation — other than Garrett, who has the highway patrol — from the allocation board and the council. However, Wilson indicated a representative of the highway department might be added to the council for the allocation board.

Wilson said he didn't expect to replace anyone now on the energy council except where there is duplication. Garrett, for example, will represent the adjutant general's office as public safety director.

The allocation board now is made up of chairman James Mauze, the PSC chairman; Boillot; state health director Herbert R. Domke; James; Guy Jaffe, director of Commerce and Industrial Development; education commissioner Arthur Mallory; Harvey Tettlebaum of the attorney general's office and W.E. Williamson, superintendent of the Bi-State Transit System.

Since the PSC has been assigned to Sikes' department, Wilson said, he didn't expect Mauze to remain on the allocation bard. But Mauze is expected to remain on the energy council.

Robert L. Gilmore, secretary of the PSC, served as executive secretary of the five-employe allocation board. Wilson said he would be replaced by a fulltime director to receive about $17,000 a year.

Wilson said he would like to add more allocation board employes.

The Federal Energy Administration has earmarked $600,000 to Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas for energy uses.

Missouri will get up to $212,000 of that, and the state must provide $120,000 in matching money. The board already has $65,000 for this fiscal year, and the rest of the $120,000 in matching money is represented in expenses of other state departments on energy-related problems, Wilson said.

s "The federal money will come with very little rope attached to it," Wilson said.

UPPERS

Amphetamines account for approximately 1/4 of all medical prescriptions for mood-altering drugs in the United States. People use amphetamines to keep awake over prolonged periods or for "energy boosts." This cycle can continue until a person is physically exhausted.

Many of the "legal" drugs are used for weight reduction, with or without the supervision of a doctor. Paradoxically, stimulants are also used in the treatment of hyper-active children. "On the street," these same medicines are known as SPEED.

Depression and lethargy usually follow the discontinuation of amphetamines. Psychiatric complications can last long beyond the period of drug activity.

BRPC receives impact statement

MALDEN- Lloyd Hogan, chairman of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission's A- 95 Project Notification and Review Committee, has announced that the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission has received a copy of the draft environmental impact statement from the U. S. Army Engineer District, Vicksburg, Miss., for the Mississippi River levees and channel improvement.

Hogan also said the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission will have a copy of the environmental impact statement in its office for review by the public until Nov. 8.

Persons interested in reviewing this document and having their comments included in the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission's comments, should contact the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission in Malden. The Commission will submit its comments on the environmental impact statement on Nov. 8.

Marshall admitted to hospital after mishap

Raymond Kelly Marshall, 49, of 403 William St. was admitted to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for observation following a two-car accident at 11:30 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Ruth and South West streets.

Police said the accident occurred when Marshall's car, traveling south on South West, was struck in the right side by a car being driven east on Ruth Street by Alice Marie Skelton, 23, of 306 Lee, East Prairie.

Miss Skelton told police she did not see the yield sign and did not see the Marshall car until it was too late to avoid the accident.

Marshall was admitted to the hospital for observation after complaining of pains in the back, head, legs and chest.

Police said no arrests were made.

Dexter home damaged by fire

DEXTER— The Dexter fire department was called at 4:15 p.m. Sunday to a fire at the home of Larry Rehm on Chalk Bluff Trail.

Chief Al Banken said the fire apparently started in a vent over the kitchen stove and did considerable damage to the sink, cabinets and ceiling. Banken said a neighbor, Richard Henderson, kept the fire under control with a dry powder extinguisher until the fire truck arrived.

Banken said the fire department used a smoke ejector to draw most of the smoke out of the house and lessen the smoke damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Rehm were not home at the time of the blaze.

Stoddard burglars busy

BLOOMFIELD— Two homes in Stoddard County were forcibly entered over the weekend according to the Stoddard County sheriff's department.

The home of Robert Harrison of Fisk was entered sometime Saturday night. A color television set values at $700 and an eight- track tape player were taken.

Sunday night the home of Henry McKay, west of Dexter, was entered and a color television set values at $700 was taken.

Investigation of both incidents is under way.

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 22, the 295th day of 1974. There are 70 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, Prsident John Kennedy ordered U.S. air and naval forces to quarantine Cuba after concluding that Soviet missile bases were being built on the island.

On this date —

In 1721, Peter the Great took the title of Czar of all Russia.

In 1859, Spain declared war against Moors in Morocco.

In 1907, a run on a New York bank set off a financial crisis known as the panic of 1907.

In 1942, during World War II, the British air force pounded the Italian port of Genoa.

In 1953, France granted independence to the Indochina kingdom of Laos.

Ten years ago: Funeral services were held in New York for the 31st American president, Herbert Hoover.

One year ago: The world-renowned cellist, Pablo Casals, died at the age of 96 in Puerto Rico.

Today's birthdays: Former Vietnam Emperor Bao Dai is 61 years old. Composer Benjamin Britten also is 61.

Thought for today: Marriage is an adventure, like going to war — Gilbert Chesterton, English writer, 1874-1936.

The town of Holland, Mich. recently celebrated the 125th anniversary of its founding by Dutch immigrants which also corresponded with the town's 45th annual "Tulip Time Festival", attracting thousands of tourists. The yearly festival culminates in the planting of hundreds of tulip bulbs and centers around the townspeople's Dutch heritage. At right, "Klompen dancers" practice folk dances on Windmill Island in authentic costumes and klompen (wooden shoes).

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Spradling of Jackson are rejoicing over the arrival of a son. The heir has been named Paul Leslie. The Standard hopes the date of his birth, the 13th of October, will be a good omen. Mrs. Pradling was formerly Miss Mary Moll of this city.

Morehouse-- E. O. Fisher, W. O. Mason and Prof. Lawlis attended a musical comedy in Cairo Monday.

New Madrid-- Mrs. Geo. Gold left last Thursday for Rockport, Ind., where she will make an extended visit to her daughter, Mrs. George Steitler.

Just out-- new Victor records for dancing: "Hard Hearted Hannah" and "Bagdad" by Paul Whiteman and his orchestra; "That's Georgia" and "Morning" by the Benson Orchestra of Chicago; and "Go Long Mule" by Vernon Dalhart; and "Way Out West in Kansas" by Billy Murray- Ed Smalle. Derris, the Druggist.

Sure was a nice day yesterday and, according to the prediction for all zones of Missouri, it will be more of the same over the weekend. Yesterday's high went to 74 and it dropped to 39 last night -- a bit warmer than the two previous nights.

Mrs. J. A. Shain and son and daughter- in- law, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shain, jr., and Mrs. Dave Reese left this morning for Toledo, Ohio, after receiving word of the death of Mrs. Marie Harris, formerly Mrs. Marie Chambliss, who is the mother of Mrs. Shain, sr., and a sister- in- law of Mrs. Reese.

Five babies were reported born at the Delta Community Hospital Friday. A baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher, 609 Sikes avenue, Sikeston; Twin girls to Mr. and Mrs. Verne Long of Sikeston; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perry of New Madrid are parents of a baby girl; It's a baby girl for Mr. and Mrs. Landis Hill of Charter Oak; and a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Grissom of East Prairie.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holden and baby daughter, Paula Ruth, returned to Sikeston recently from Flint, Mich., and plan to make their home here. Mr. Holden returned to Flint where he is still employed.

Sikeston encountering a porous East Prairie forward wall, had no difficulty here Friday night in walloping the Eagles 66- 0 for the 11th straight Bulldog gridiron decision.

What's the law?

The case of the missing minor

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Seena went house hunting and found one that was not only within her price range, but was a house with which she truly fell in love. Particularly impressive was a large mirror that hung over the fireplace.

Murmoring "Mirror, mirror on the wall, this is the fairest deal of all," Seena signed a contract to buy the house from its owner, Mr. Humble.

On the day the deal closed, however, and Seena moved in, she discovered to her chagrin that Mr. Humble had removed the impressive mirror. Furious, Seena sued him for either the return of the mirror or its value.

"The mirror was part of the house," Seena complained in court. "By remvoing it, Mr. Humble took my property."

"That's not so," retorted Mr. Humble. "The mirror wasn't included as part of the sale. Just because it hung the wall, it was no more part of the house than my mother- in- law who also hung around."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require Mr. Humble to pony up the mirror or its value?

This how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that articles of household furnishings which can be removed without material injury to the building are generally not part of a house that passes to a new owner unless the contract of sale specifically provides otherwise.

Missourians call for land buying review

WASHINGTON — Three Missouri members of Congress have called on the General Accounting Office to undertake a complete review of the Army Corps of Engineers' land- buying policies, which they said were the subject of a growing number of complaints from Missourians.

In a letter to Comptroller General Elmer Staats, Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton and Rep. William Randall said the complaints ranged from dissatisfaction with appraisals to disputes over what properties would or would not be acquired.

Citing the case of Deepwater, Mo., the three legislators said the Corps of Engineers plan was to buy most of the city's residential property but not the streets or downtown areas.

"In a letter to us," they said, "the Corps concedes that 'after reservoir project land acquisition, the business area will be a veritable peninsula, and will be one, in fact, during those infrequent times when the reservoir reaches the full flood pool elevation.'

"The Corps also concedes that 'the area could degrade into a health and safety hazard' but it insists, nevertheless, that it has no authority to acquire the affected properties."

Noting that in some cases "It is the law, not the Corps of Engineers, which is at fault," the congressmen requested the GAO to advise them on what legislative as well as administrative changes were needed "to help assure more

John Mercer Langston, elected clerk in 1855 of Brownhelm township, Lorain County, Ohio, was the first Negro to win elective office in the United States.

Owners protest proposal

NEW MADRID-- A group of property owners met with the City Council Monday night and requested the council to take action on a petition signed by more than 75 per cent of the affected owners protesting a council proposal to resurface and install curbs and guttering.

The petition from the property owners along Vandenvender, Pinnell, Russell, Brush Prairie, Hunter, Tennessee, Missouri, First and Second streets had been submitted at an Oct. meeting, and the council had referred it to City Administrator Don Lloyd for validation of signatures.

The council agreed that the signatures were valid and that the objections were primarily because of the projected cost of $8.90 per foot. An alternate plan, with no curbs, guttering and ditches at a cost of less than $4 per foot, was being studied by the council, the group was told.

Boyd Masterson, David Mann and Booker Paul requested that the project be discontinued, as now proposed, and any new plans be resubmitted to the property owners.

The council did not drop the project but agreed not to exceed a cost of $8 per foot.

Ross Hill told the council he objected to being charged $2.25 at his barber shop and $2.25 at his home for trash and garbage collection when he only had trash at his residence.

Aldermen George Dawson and Joe Hunter and Lloyd were appointed to a committee to hear complaints and to recommend adjustments on trash disposal charges.

Hunter and Bill Boyd were appointed as commissioners for the demolition of buildings that have been abandoned and are in disrepair. Other members will be the mayor, fire chief and city marshal.

Lloyd told the council the new city dog pound had been completed and that Joe Hill had been appointed dog catcher.

Appointments of Ronnie Adams and Paul Haubold Jr. as policemen were approved.

The council agreed to allow the Commission for Municipal Pooling Services to bid on behalf of the city for the purchase of natural gas facilities within the city from Associated Natural Gas Co. The commission consists of about 20 Bootheel cities that have given notice of their intent to bid on the facilities. Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. of Blytheville, Ark., was ordered in 1971 to divest itself of the gas facility by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Anderson returned to jail

CHARLESTON— Willie Lee Anderson, 23, of Wyatt, who was arrested Monday in Cairo, Ill., waived extradition and was returned to the Mississippi County jail by Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith to face a burglary and stealing charge.

The charge against Anderson involves a break-in about 2 p.m. Sunday at the Nathaniel Severe home in Wyatt and the theft of a color television set and a portable radio. The television was recovered Monday in Unity, Ill., and the radio was found at a home in Cairo.

Anderson remains in custody under $3,000 bond and will appear for arraignment Thursday in Magistrate Court.

World News in Brief

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev may have a get-acquainted meeting, possibly in the Siberian city of Vladivostok, a senior American official says.

Plans for such a get-together are under consideration and will be decided upon within 10 days, the official said. Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger stopped here briefly on Monday.

"It will be a very brief meeting, if it takes place," said the official. He added that more substantive talks will be held when Brezhnev visits the United States next summer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Walter T. Kerwin Jr. has been chosen as the next vice chief of staff for the Army. Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger announced Monday that President Ford approved the appointment of the 57-year-old native of West Chester, Pa., to succeed Gen. Fred C. Weyand, who was promoted to chief of staff.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Gamble, a millionaire soap heir, has been fined $10,500 and ordered to devote one day a week to wildlife conservation after being convicted of transporting illegally killed game.

Gamble, the 36-year-old great-grandson of the cofounder of Proctor & Gamble, was also placed on three years probation by U.S. District Judge Robert Peckham on Monday.

Peckham told Gamble to work one day a week for a year with a conservation group and not hunt big game for three years.

OTTAWA (AP) — United Farm Workers President Cesar Chavez has canceled a Canadian campaign for support of his union's grape and lettuce boycott because of illness.

A spokesman said Monday that Chavez was recovering in a California hospital from a back ailment and exhaustion. He was to start the tour today in Sydney, Nova Scotia. Canada is the largest importer of California-grown produce.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon would get only 12 per cent of the vote if he ran for the Senate against Democratic incumbent John V. Tunney, a Mervin Field poll shows.

A survey of 1,089 California voters showed if Nixon were paired with Tunney in 1976, the former chief executive would lose by a 58-point margin, 70 per cent to 12 per cent with 18 per cent undecided.

Tunney outpolled Nixon 43 per cent to 26 per cent among Republicans, with the remainder of those polled undecided.

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — An 11 p.m. curfew on persons under age 18 was imposed by the city council, with supporters citing vandalism, drug traffic and related crimes as the reasons.

The vote Monday was 11 to 1. The curfew takes effect immediately.

Rape suspects in custody

CAIRO, Ill. — A Mound City man is being held in Pulaski County Jail and a Clinton, Ky. man in Mississippi County Jail in Charleston, Mo., after they allegedly criminally assaulted a 17-year-old woman, according to Pulaski County Sheriff, Raymond Calvin.

Sheriff Calvin said the two are being held on multiple charges.

Robert McElmurray, 24, of Mound City is being held in Mound City and Donald Jones, 34, of Clinton, is being held in Charleston.

Sheriff Calvin said Jones allegedly picked up a 21-year old man and a 17-year-old woman hitchhiking in Kentucky. He then took them to a tavern in Cairo and there picked up McElmurray. The car then proceeded north from Cairo on Interstate 57, according to Sheriff Calvin.

When the car approached Anna, McElmurray reportedly pulled out a knife and forced the 21-year-old man from the car.

Then McElmurray and Jones were alleged to have criminally assaulted the 17-year-old woman.

When approaching Pulaski, Jones let the woman and McElmurray out of the car, Calvin said.

The 21-year-old man flagged a car to Anna and reported the incident to the Anna police.

The car was spotted going south through Cairo and a high speed chase started which went into Missouri and did not end until the Missouri Highway Patrol forced the car off the road.

McElmurray is being charged with one count of assault and two counts of rape and Jones with one count of rape, according to Sheriff Calvin.

Firemen called to Dexter home

DEXTER — Firemen answered a call at 9:45 a.m. Monday to a fire which seriously damaged the Rex Anthony home at 338 N. Poplar St.

The family was not at home at the time, and the fire was reported by a neighbor, Mrs. Florence Anderson.

The cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Barnwarming dance planned

BLOOMFIELD — The Bloomfield High School chapters of Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America have scheduled their annual barnwarming dance Friday night.

The activities will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Covered walkways to be constructed

BLOOMFIELD — The Bloomfield R-14 school board voted Monday night to proceed with construction of covered walkways between the school buildings.

The project is a portion of improvements to be financed under a $30,000 bond issue approved by voters in May 1973.

Other improvements scheduled include four elementary classrooms for children with learning disabilities and space for a library and art department to be added to the high school building.

Lilbourn man critically injured

LILBOURN — Sammie Banks, 45, of Route One was still in the intensive care unit today at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., where he was taken after receiving critical injuries Saturday when his truck was struck by a Frisco train near Lilbourn.

Banks was first taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, then transferred to the Memphis hospital.

The accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. Saturday when a truck driven by Banks stalled on the railroad track and was struck broadside by a diesel freight train. The accident occurred at a gravel crossing one mile south of Lilbourn.

Aged woman to wed 29-year-old man

LLay, Wales (AP) — A Welsh coal miner's young son who says he is engaged to Happy Rockefeller's aged millionaire aunt Rachel Fitler expressed fear today that the publicity about their May-and-December romance would "blow the whole thing."

"When she sees the way the story has blown up here, anything could happen," said 29year-old Michael Wilson after the London papers gave splash play to his announcement Monday that he and Miss Fitler would be married around Christmas.

Wilson told newsmen they met last January while he was working as a butler at the Breakers Hotel in Palm Beach, Fla. He said they got engaged in May and his parents visited Miss Fitler in the United States.

"We have a genuine deep affection for each other, but the papers have made me look like a golddigger. She's a very nice private person, but how do you think she'll feel seeing me all over the front pages?

"She could easily get the wrong impression from what she sees in the papers. How do you explain something like that? She might call it off now. I don't know."

Miss Fitler lives in Philadelphia, and sources there said she is 77.

She was not immediately available for comment, but a spokesman for her niece's husband, Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, said: "I heard that such a story was coming from Wales. I don't know anything about it. I think it may be correct, but I just don't know."

Miss Fitler was quoted in a British newspaper as saying, "Although I've never been married, I've had plenty of offers. Now that I'm settled I feel like giving it a try."

On the age gap, she said "Michael doesn't seem to think it will affect our relationship."

Wilson said he didn't want to talk about the difference in their ages. "I don't think the gap in our ages is at all important.

Parent-teacher conferences set

NEW MADRID— Personal conferences between kindergarten parents and teachers are scheduled for Thursday, and Friday, in New Madrid R-1 Schools.

Schools are utilizing parent conferences as a means of securing home-school cooperation.

Parents of each kindergarten child will be given a scheduled time to come for consultation. Conferences will be held during one evening for employed parents who find it impossible to come during the day.

Purpose of the educators is to have a continuous program of informing parents and encouraging them to work in cooperation with the school. School officials, say they believe Kindergarten Parent-Teacher Conferences as replacements for report cards are steps in the right direction.

Three receive minor injuries in accidents

Three persons received minor injuries in two area traffic accidents Monday and today, according to the highway patrol.

Two Charleston men were injured in a one-car accident at 2:50 a.m. today on Route K, three miles south of Wyatt.

The patrol said the accident occurred when a northbound car, driven by Charles Fitzgerald, 19, was traveling at a high rate of speed, pursued by a Cairo, Ill. policeman.

The Fitzgerald car lost control on a curve, ran off the road, overturned several times and struck a utility pole.

Fitzgerald and a passenger in the car, Coy Fitzgerald, 23, received minor injuries and both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Cairo police were reportedly pursuing the Fitzgerald car for a moving violation, but authorities in Cairo said no official report had been filed.

Shirley Hatley, 21, of Poplar Bluff received minor injuries at 1:55 p.m. Monday on Highway 67 in Poplar Bluff when the brakes failed on the southbound car she was driving and it struck the rear of a parked state highway department truck parked on a bridge and pointed south.

She was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Asked if he had anything to declare at customs. Oscar Wilde, docking in New York City on his first visit to America in 1882, shocked the customs' inspector by replying coolly, "Nothing but my genius."

signs on every corner in the city."

The rest of the council agreed with Vancil.

"You heard what your aldermen said," Conner said to Rudisill. "There's nothing I can do about it."

"They're not my aldermen," Rudisill retorted hotly. "They're just from my area. "They're not representing me."

"Last meeting they voted not to put up the signs, that's all I can say," Conner said.

In other business, renewal of a beer license for the Playboy Lounge was approved, a decision was made to purchase a list from the state of Missouri of all state licenses sold and to whom, a committee was appointed to consider drafting an ordinance restricting the use of horses and motorcycles in the city parks and an area in northwest Dexter was rezoned from agricultural use to a mobile home zone.

Cape Girardeau Ramada Inn.

A port authority would be an economic boom to both Scott and Cape Girardeau counties, he said.

Members of the two county committees toured the Greenville, Miss., and President's Island, Tenn., port authorities last week, Lankford said.

The trip was made to gain information about establishing a port authority, he said.

Scott County committee members on the tour were Jack Hunter of Sikeston; associate county judge- elect Melvin Gluek of Chaffee; E. Mike Pfefferkorn of Chaffee; C. B. Taylor of Morley, chairman of the committee; Raymond Roth of Illmo; Billy Wheeler of Scott City; and Lankford.

Two representatives of the state health department told the court Monday that they were pleased with progress being made in operation of the county sanitary landfill.

The state agency has been critical of the landfill because it had not been kept up to state specifications.

Lankford said the landfill has not been approved because more work needs to be done. However, he said the two men had viewed the landfill and complimented the court on the work being done to correct deficiencies.

Inflationary surge worst in 25 years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising prices for food, clothing and mortgage rates pushed the cost of living up another 1.2 per cent in September, making the last 12 months the worst inflationary surge in more than 25 years, the government reported today.

Prices in September were reported 12.1 per cent higher than a year earlier. This was the worst 12-month increase since 1947.

However, the purchasing power of the average worker increased slightly for the first time in three months. Real spendable earnings—that is weekly pay adjusted for inflation and taxes—rose onetenth of a per cent in September but was still at the lowest level since December 1970.

Price increases were spread across almost the entire economy last month. Food led the way, posting its biggest rise since February.

The Ford administration has predicted that consumer prices will continue increasing at the rate of about one per cent a month through the end of the year, and that there would be no significant easing of inflation until some time next year.

Consumer prices have already risen 9.7 per cent so far this year. In 1973, prices rose 8.8 per cent, the worst in any year since the end of World War II.

The Labor Department said last month's 1.2 per cent increase, after a rise of 1.3 per cent in August, pushed the government's consumer price index up to 151.9. That meant it cost $151.90 to buy a variety of goods and services that cost $100 in the 1967 base period.

Although most of the news was bad, some prices declined in September, including such items as gasoline and fresh fruits and vegetables.

Over-all food prices went up an adjusted 1.9 per cent in September compared to a 1.4 per cent increase the previous month. The index for nonfood commodities increased 1 per cent following an August rise of 1.5 per cent while the cost of services rose 1.1 per cent, the same as in August.

With the exception of fresh fruits and vegetables, all major food categories went up last month, pushing grocery prices 1.5 per cent higher over the month to a level 10.9 per cent above a year ago.

Beef and pork prices were reported up instead of declining and poultry prices, which usually are unchanged in September, also rose. Dairy products increased for the first time in four months while prices of fats and oil products continued to climb sharply.

Higher clothing prices accounted for about a fourth of the 1.1 per cent rise in nonfood commodities. New car prices increased slightly instead of declining substantially as they usually do at the end of the model year.

Charges for most household services increased with gas, electricity and telephone rates rising. There was a rise in mortgage interest costs, reflecting earlier increases in interest rates on conventionally financed loans as well as the previously announced rate increase for VA-guaranteed loans, which accounted for more than a fourth of the increase in the cost of services last month.

Education program aids adults

Starting Oct. 28, the Adult Learning Center at Lincoln School will be open daily from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights from 6:30 to 9:30. Ellen Linnemeyer, right, Director of Adult Basic Education, spent part of Monday night's session working with Luy Williams, left, and Hoa Fesler, center. Both women are from Vietnam and are using the education program to study toward United States citizenship. The program is free to all adults who do not have a high school education. Students work on a variety of subjects at their own rate of learning.

1 killed, 2 injured in Campbell blast

CAMPBELL-- A St. Louis man was killed and two Dexter men were injured in an explosion that leveled a Campbell service station early Monday morning at the intersection at state highway 53 and county road HH.

The Martin Oil Co. service station, which is being operated by Dale Self of Campbell as Self's Trailway Service, was destroyed by the blast, which occurred at about 2 a.m. Monday.

Campbell Police Chief Clyde Jacques said the explosion was comparable to an earth tremor in force. Campbell Patrolman Albert Moore said the blast could be heard for 10 miles.

About 4 p.m. Monday, Campbell patrolman David Moore found the body of Jerry Pinnon, 34, of St. Louis, in the debris of the blast site. Pinnon had been missing since the blast, and until the body was found, police had been checking local and St. Louis hospitals for him. His wife identified the remains.

Missouri Highway Patrol Sgt. Donald Shelton said Monday that two other persons were injured in the blast. Herman Pinnon, 56, of Dexter was taken to Doctor's Hospital in Poplar Bluff. He was treated for burns and a broken leg and is listed in good condition. William Wayne Pinnion, 36, also of Dexter, was taken to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis for treatment for severe burns. He is listed in critical condition.

Shelton said the elder Pinnon told authorities that he, his son Jerry, and his nephew Wayne, had been riding in a pickup truck that overheated. They had pulled into the driveway of the closed service station to get water for the radiator of their vehicle. They had gotten out of the truck when they noticed a small fire in the station office. Pinnon said the next thing he knew, "the whole place blew up."

The explosion scattered concrete block and debris onto the highway, blocking traffic until Campbell firemen and volunteer crews could clear the road.

Campbell Police Chief Clyde Jacques said the cause of the fire and explosion had not been determined, but arson had not been ruled out. The station had been closed Sunday.

Sgt. Shelton said investigators are awaiting the arrival of a bomb and arson specialist from Jefferson City to assist them in determining the cause of the blast.

Explosion levels station

The body of Jerry Pinnon of St. Louis was found in the rubble of Self's Trailway Martin Service Station in Campbell following an explosion early Monday. Authorities are still investigating the cause of the blast.

Jaycees oppose housing

CHAFFEE-- Dwayne Bryant, president of the Chaffee Jaycees, told the City Council Monday night that the Jaycees wanted to go on record as opposing any further public housing in Chaffee.

Bryant said the Jaycees are against a proposal to build an additional 50 units of public housing in the southern part of the city.

The council reversed a previous decision to pave the approaches to Dame Bridge on South Main Street with concrete, deciding to pave with asphalt instead.

The council approved the permanent employment of Police Chief James Coats who had completed his probationary period. All city employes are put on a six-month probationary period when they are hired.

The council voted to send Fire Chief Bill Hagan to a seminar next month in Sedalia.

2 of 4 ambulances arrive at hospital

Two of four ambulances ordered by Missouri Delta Community Hospital arrived in Sikeston during the night, according to David Bartlett, director of ambulance services.

However, the ambulances will not be ready for service until at least next week, he said.

Two- way radios must be installed in the vehicles and the man who will do the installation is out of town until Thursday, he said. The installation will take two days, he added.

Bartlett said the other two ambulances the hospital ordered may arrive in Jefferson City Wednesday.

The hospital has been renting an ambulance and using another which was donated to provide service to the area. Most funeral homes stopped providing ambulance service during the summer because of a new state law making it more difficult to operate the service.

A press release issued today by the hospital says hospital ambulance drivers have discovered that many motorists do not observe the law which requires them to yield the right of way to emergency vehicles.

"This not only endangers the lives of those in the emergency vehicle but also the life of the offender," the release states.

State law requires motorists to pull over to the right and stop when approached or overtaken by an emergency vehicle using a flashing red light or siren.

Hearing Tuesday on port

BENTON-- The Scott and Cape Girardeau county port authorities will meet jointly at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Cape Girardeau for a public hearing concerning a proposed regional port authority, according to Les Lankford, presiding judge of the Scott County Court.

The hearing, before John Brawley, chairman of the State Department of Transportation, will decide whether the project will receive state approval.

If the state approves the project, Lankford said an engineer will be hired to find the best port location along the diversion channel in Scott County. There are several possible locations along the channel, Lankford said.

Lankford added that he hopes local business and government leaders will attend the public hearing, which will be held at the

Dexter told FAA lacks funds for airport plan

DEXTER-- Mayor Willis Conner told the City Council Monday night that the Federal Aviation Administration has informed him that it has run out of program funds to implement the comprehensive airport plan developed under the airport board.

He said this does not affect the formation of the master plan itself which had already been funded, but only in the carrying out of the plan.

At an earlier meeting the board had authorized the Sikeston architectural firm of Buchmueller, Whitworth and Foust, Inc. to draw up the plans for improvement. Funding for the plan was to come from the federal government as well as the state.

The council passed a resolution at Monday night's meeting allowing Mayor Conner to sign an agreement with the state to let the state pay one- sixth of the cost of the development of the plan.

In a letter to Conner, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton verified the Federal Aviation Administration report that federal funds for the program have been depleted.

"At least we're ready to go if we ever do get the money," Alderman Jack Smarr said in reference to the already funded development plan.

"We're still on the active list," Conner said, explaining that Dexter is still eligible for the funds if and when they become available.

A citizen told the council Monday night that it had misunderstood a request to place no parking signs at the corner of Catalpha and St. Francis streets.

"The request for those signs had nothing to do with any church," R. M. Mudisill said. "It's just that parking on that corner is unsafe."

At a previous meeting the board had considered a request for the no parking signs, but rejected it after being told that it had been made for the benefit of a church group.

"It would set a bad precedent," Alderman Doren Vancil had said at the earlier meeting, and the new interpretation did not change his mind.

"I've been by that corner," Vancil said, "and I stand by what I said earlier. It would set a bad precedent. Before you know it we'd have to put up no parking

Correction

The account of a traffic accident near Matthews was incorrectly reported in Monday's editoon of The Daily Standard.

The accident occurred at 7:50 p.m. Sunday on Highway 80 two miles east of Matthews when a westbound car driven by James Bostic, 68, of Sikeston overtook and struck the back of another westbound car driven by Jean Whittington, 46, of East Prairie.

Monday's article erroneously stated that the Whittington car struck the back of the Bostic car.

Torres arrested for theft of motorcycle

George Torres, 28, of Halfway Trailer Court was arrested at his home at 10 p.m. Monday for the theft of a motorcycle from Hick's Motorcycle Shop, 512 E. Center St.

The motorcycle, valued at $359, was taken in a burglary between 5:30 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Monday.

Detective Dan Hinton said the motorcycle was recovered by Cape Girardeau police at a service station where it had been stored.

Hinton, Detective Sgt. Jack Patterson and Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman made the arrest.

Hidden marijuana found

CHARLESTON-- A plastic bag containing between one and two pounds of marijuana was found Monday morning hidden in the woods in the Big Lake area north of Charleston.

Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom, who is conducting the investigation, said today the marijuana was found after an anonymous tip was received that gave the location of the marijuana.

A HYMN TO CITY LIFE

Despite the fact that churchgoers in America are overwhelmingly urbanites, the hymns they sing each Sunday morning that have environmental references are mostly rural in nature, according to Dr. Stephen Stephan, professor emeritus of sociology at the University of Arkansas.

Analyzing hymns from several books used by different denominations, he found that the verses are "replete with rural thought forms and imagery."

For example, of 72 hymns in The Methodist Hymnal that contain environmental references, 66 are rural in nature and contain environmental references, 66 are rural in nature and only six urban. Much the same ratio is found in the 1956 hymnal of the Southern Presbyterian and (Northern) United Presbyterian Churches. Even in the hymn book used by many Unitarian churches, the rural emphasis is pronounced.

Stephan's research, showed that "the more fundamentalistic and 'old timey' the hymn books are, the more rural is the imagery". He points out that many urban worshippers, particularly in fundamentalist faiths, have been uprooted from rural heritages in recent years. The hymns may assuage their feelings of alienation and loneliness.

Another reason for the emphasis on rural themes is a bias against city and urban life growing from the early-day association of rural areas with "the good life" and of cities with that which is bad — sin, vice, poverty, crime and the more recent ills of pollution, noise, waste and ugliness.

Hymns are more than just the music of the church, says Stephan. Rather, they reinforce what he terms "the teaching ministry." He suggested that the ecological movement could benefit from new hymns that are "relevant to modern urban man."

THE ENVIRONMENT AND
PRICE CONTROL

With the nation plunging into a morass of controversy over wage and price controls, the public has suddenly found a new interest on which to center its attention — and just as if somebody had switched off a searchlight, the actors performing on the stage of ecology and the environment have been left in the dark.

This does not mean that the issues of environmental preservation are any less pressing or authentic. What it does mean is that we may have passed through the era of environmental faddism. Headline hunting, political crusaders have found another horse to ride, at least for the time being. The odds are good that the battle of controls, which is far closer to the immediate pocketbook interests of consumers, will be a star attraction for sometime to come. The question is: Will the new preoccupation with hiding inflation by fiat make allowance for the costs of advancing and applying the technology of pollution abatement. Environmental extremism was always a luxury as are most fads, but genuine, long- range environmental programs are a necessity. Long after the issue has left the headlines, major industries are bound, by law and a sense of moral responsibility, to move ahead as rapidly as possible toward land, air and water conservation.

The price tag on these efforts will be high, both for the public and the industries involved. How will the bureaucracy that must be called upon to enforce wage and price controls view the environment issue when it is no longer in the spotlight as a public fad? Will the billions of collars spent for research in the development of pollution - free autos, power plants, oil refineries and manufacturing concerns of all kinds be recognized as a necessary business expense that must be passed on to consumers in higher prices?

TATTOOED ARTICLES
A BURGLAR'S BANE

Burglary is still the No. 1 crime in America. Some 2½ million burglaries are committed every year — about one every 13 seconds — for an estimated loss of more than $722 million.

Only about one in every five burglaries is solved. Of the relatively small percentage of stolen goods that police recover, a large share can't be identified and is eventually put up for public sale. This lack of positive identification of stolen property also makes it difficult to obtain convictions for breaking and entering.

"Operation Identification," a protection program sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Agents (NAIA), is a plan to put the thieves out of business. It simply involves personalizing or branding portable belongings with the owner's personal identification number. Electric engraving pens are available at no cost through the local offices of NAIA members across the country.

After branding their property, participants in Operation ID put decals on windows and doors reading, "All items of value on these premises have been marked for ready identification by law enforcement agencies."

The idea is that, being forewarned, burglars won't usually break in for any good burglars knows that marked items are not only hard to fence but offer police hard evidence for a conviction and are, therefore, an invitation to jail.

The results, where the program has been put into operation, have been dramatic.

In the Cincinnati area, for example, in one year's time there were 12,000 burglaries in 125,000 non-Operation Identification homes. During the same period there were only 10 burglaries in the 17,000 homes participating in the program.

Wichita, Kans., reports 5,553 burglaries in 90,000 homes. But of the 20,000 homes involved in Operation ID, only four were burglarized and of these four, only six marked items were taken and three of them were subsequently recovered.

Operation Identification thus has three functions, it deters burglaries, traces stolen property and helps prosecute thieves. It also helps keep down spiraling insurance costs.

Currently, about 1,000 cities are participating in the program.

CANCER CAN ALTER
WORLD HISTORY

Most of us think of cancer as a disease that chiefly affects our own personal lives or those of our immediate family or friends.

Last week however, when the wife of the President of the United States contracted it, the fact was brought home to many of us that it can and may affect not only all Americans but the world. If Mrs. Ford's illness should continue, there is a distinct possibility that President Ford will not be a candidate for reelection, as he has said he would in such a case possibly retire from public office, preferring to look after his wife's health rather than be President, or even a candidate for the office.

Like others, President Ford can of course be replaced. There has never been an "indispensible" man or woman. But any changes in our leadership can easily alter national and world history, whether for better or worse.

It is something for all of us to consider, and further emphasizes the need for every American to do everything possible to conquer the disease, and to keep it out of our own lives.

TV HAZARDS

The U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission plans to impose safety standards for all TV sets sold in this country. Meantime, the Commission has these recommendations for guarding against fire or electrical shock:

Never leave a set on when you depart from the house, or even when you are out of the room for more than a short time.

Unplug the TV and disconnect lead-in wires from an outside antenna when you go on vacation. That will avert possible fire from lightning storms or power- line surges. But don't unplug the set every time you stop watching. That may damage the cord -- creating another fire hazard.

If your set has "instant on" but not an "instant-on defeat switch," you should plug the set into an outlet controlled by a wall switch -- so the "instant-on" feature cannot continue to pour power into the set when it's not in use. Be sure to turn the wall switch on before turning the set on and turn the TV of before turning the wall switch off -- to avoid overloading the extra switch.

Warn children not to push or drop anything into the cabinet because of the danger of electrical shock.

Make sure ventilation openings are clear. Don't push sets up against walls or furniture, or let newspapers or drapes block the vents. Otherwise, heat can built up inside the cabinet and cause a fire.

Never clean the screen when the set is on, or put containers of water or other liquid on top of the cabinet. Water can cause short circuits, with fire and shock risks. If your set does get damp or wet -- say from rain when it's left on a porch -- pull the plug and have the whole thing inspected by a repairman.

In case of unusually loud or constant snapping or popping noise, unplug the TV and have it checked. Have the cord checked, too.

When parts are replaced, have the serviceman verify that they have the same safety features as the originals.

If a fire does start: unplug the TV. Call the fire department. You can attempt to put out the fire with a dry chemical fire extinguisher. But never use water, because of the danger of shock.

Colonel Sam S. Smith, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today commented on the proper use and adjustment of headlights.

"It is dangerous to blind the driver you are following or approaching with your headlights," Smith noted. "Many nighttime traffic accidents have been caused by the temporary blindness of drivers, resulting from their exposure to the strong light. It is for that reason drivers should dim their headlights when following within 300 feet of another vehicle or when within 500 feet of an oncoming vehicle as required by law."

The Patrol Superintendent stated that improperly adjusted headlights are also a hazard to drivers at night. He pointed out that low beam lights often project higher than they should and these lights appear to be on high beam. This makes it difficult for oncoming drivers to see. He suggested that when approaching drivers flash their headlights as a signal for you to dim and you are already on low beam, it is a sure sign that your lights need attention.

"Improper use and adjustment of headlights contribute to the hazards of night driving," Smith concluded. "Drivers can help insure their safety on the highways at night by regular inspection of their headlights and by using them as specified by law."

TEN YEARS
LATER

It was 10 years ago that Nikita S. Khrushchev bowed out as the strong man of the Soviet Union. The old communist had shaken his nation, and the world, by denouncing Stalin and the Stalin rule. There were even feeble hopes in the free world that the communist regime of Russia might shed its secrecy and abandon its world- wide policy of political and military subversion. It wasn't to be. Khrushchev would later use his shoe to pound the table during a nasty personal demonstration in the United Nations headquarters. He was arrogant when he announced giant nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, and he hinted that Soviet space accomplishments could be converted to overpowering military use.

Khrushchev's bluster began to run out, however, when his hand was called by the U.S. on the stationing of giant military missiles on secret Cuban bases. He suffered the pangs of disgrace when he had to take the missiles out under the inspection of the U.S. Navy (It was that or face nuclear war.) Later he would be ousted by the political clout of Leonid I. Brezhnev.

During the 10 years since Khrushchev's fall from power, U.S. — Soviet relations have improved slightly. The threat of Russian communism did not go away with Khrushchev. however. The Soviets have gained in military strength and their efforts at world- wide subversion persist. Any relaxation on the part of Americans in maintaining strong defenses would be fatal. Brezhnev and his colleagues are still dedicated to the doctrine of Lenin which is world domination and our destruction. HLH

ATLANTA — Once the sullen Ku Klux Klan here tried to pull a white hood over the capitol's gray dome. I remember it well. Those wool hats bounced me like a yo-yo off the marble (that's what it felt like) floor of the rotunda.

But these days this fabulous town, which sprouts overnight like bamboo in Bali, is different. When one talks of "the mob," one means organized crime -- and it's black, not white.

Which means this now seething southern Babylon has come of age, what with its professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey teams. And gambling. And construction. And service "industries." And unions, some of which are being probed by branch offices of bigger federal anti- crime units based in Miami and New Orleans.

Atlanta, say some knowledgeable law and order anti- racketeering men, federals and locals alike, is a sort of New York south. What made New York the "grand-Godfather" of the organized crime operators were the professional sports, the stadiums, the unions and the newly arrived immigrants.

Thus, a tough "Irishman" Owney Madden ran a mob. Arnold Rothstein was the first financier of world narcotics buying rings. Lepke Buchalter and Gurah Shapiro ran Murder, Inc. Lanksy ran the Bugs and Meyer thugs, and Lucky Luciano worked the Unione Siciliano up into a thing called the Mafia.

No point going sociologist now. But tough black mobs have emerged and are operating in Brooklyn, Harlem and across the Hudson in New Jersey, Philadelphia, and Detroit, just to pick a few. This is the historical progression of the underworld.

It is natural that the black community would be exploited in newfound power centers -- yes, like Atlanta -- by blacks.

So it's organized crime here -- but with a difference. The Northern mobs, the so- called Mafia, just never could muscle in. And they tried. And some still try.

One of the earliest was the alleged National Commission member, reputed Godfather (Don) of the New England underworld, Ray Patriarca. Until he began doing time for conspiracy to murder, he reigned out of Procidence, R. I. -- which still has a mighty tough crew. It reaches into Boston. But when Patriarca sought new territory here in Atlanta some years ago, he never made it.

And then one of the reportedly top lieutenants of the so- called Joe Colombo, Sr., crowd (now shooting each other at a geometric rate in New York)tried for Atlanta. He made it. Right into the famed penitentiary. He's Carmine (The Snake) Persico, still, from his cell, leader of a force battling what's left of the Gallo mob.

Then a Chicago moblike "combination" tried. They came in with vending machines. They had some allegedly high city hall connections. But the incumbent mayor screamed. The federals moved in and the mob- linked men reportedly moved out. They couldn't get much support from the Chicago "organization." No "confirmed" strong Chicago boss. Even today the Chicago mob's Godfather mantle is up for bloody grabs.

Federal specialists on the Chicago underworld say the contenders for this heavy dividend paying dishonor are ancient Tony Accardo, Jack Cerone and Sam Giancana. The latter was in self- exile in Mexico for eight years. Then the authorities there booted him out last July 19. They deposited him in San Antonio. From there the FBI flew Sam to testify before a federal grand jury.

Federal anti- organized crime strike force probers say that among those who looked longingly on the "opened territory" in Atlanta is the alleged Louisiana Godfather, Carlos Marcello, whom the Justice Department officially refers to as a "New Orleans real estate developer." He couldn't get in.

Anyway he'll be busy in court during the early days of January 1975. He has been indicted by the federals on charges of allegedly violating anti- racketeering statutes by using threats of violence to gain control of a local (New Orleans) night club.

Gory story. But this isn't the spot for it. Sufficient to report that he couldn't move into the Atlanta territory either despite this tough reputation. The little fellow also once made the mistake of swinging at an FBI agent.

But what of the New York big time? Well, the Mafia families still do a brisk multi-million- dollar business there. Some of them are awaiting the legalizing of gambling casinos in New Jersey. But for the moment the competition for the place of The Chairman or the Godfather of Godfathers is fierce.

Federal agents who specialize in these matters believe that the strong man is ex-convict Carmine Galante. At 64 he was paroled from the Atlanta federal penitentiary last Jan. 24. Now he's consolidating some of the "families," it is reported. There's an uneasy truce, it is said, between him and Chairman of the Board (that's what they call it) Carlo Gambino, reputedly once the most powerful of labor racket chiefs. Further Galante did 12 years in Lewisburg and Atlanta and has no great desire to return. He's on parole.

So the black mobsters have it made in Atlanta. They're organized. But not to the degree of security and "family" loyalty as their Northern underworld prototypes. And, intelligently, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration spent real money to help the Georgia Organized Crime Prevention Council get rolling here in 1972.

So the more things change the more thay are the same -- organized crime just isn't the mark of shame of any one religion, race or nationality.

A LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT

Dear Mr. President,

I'm having a helluva time. I watched you on television the other night while waiting to see the World Series, and your message really got to me. Ever since I heard you tell us that the best way to fight inflation was not to spend money and not to waste anything, I've been trying to follow your advice with very questionable results.

For example, the next morning I went down to the supermarket and bought some soup bones. I made the mistake of telling the butcher I wasn't going to buy any steak until the price came down.

That evening I received a visit from two members of the cattleman's association who said they had heard about what I said in the supermarket, and they wanted me to know that they were having the worst year in their history and if I didn't give a damn about the food industry in this country, they wouldn't give a damn about me. I explained to them that you had said the only way to fight inflation was to live within my budget -- and you know what they did? They shot two steers in the head on my front lawn. It cost me $89.50 to have the carcasses carted away.

The next day I had a call from an automobile dealer who told me the new models had just arrived at the showroom and advised me to come down right away. I told him that, because of your plea in Kansas City, I decided to forego the luxury of a 1975 car until the economy was straightened out.

An hour later three officers of the United Auto Workers Union broke into my office and asked me what I thought I was doing. I told them the car I owned was prefectly satisfactory, and I really didn't need a new car. Well, you should have heard what they said, Mr. President. They accused me of creating unemployment in the most important industry in America and shouted that if everyone thought the way I did we would have the greatest depression in the history of the country. I tried to calm them down by pointing out that everyone in this country had to bite the bullet -- but they were so infuriated, they threw a chair through my window, which cost me $56 to replace.

Well, I got home that night and had a visit from Richard Kaltenborn who works in a children's clothing store. Richard had just been laid off from the store because no one was buying clothing. Ever since your message, they haven't sold two pairs of jeans. The store told Richard if people started buying again, he would be rehired. The reason he came to see me is that he was strapped for cash and asked if I could loan him $400. I had no choice but to loan him the money since we handn't bought children's clothing ourselves, and I felt responsible for Richard's unemployment.

Just as Richard left I received a call from Mr. Rumstead who owns the local theater. He wanted to know if I was coming down to see "The Great Gatsby" that night. I said no, we weren't, because we were fighting inflation.

"That does it," he said. "I'm closing the theater for good."

Because the kids have no movie theater to go to any more, they're now hanging around the house with their friends, and it has cost me $45 for beer and pretzels alone.

Of course, we're not going to go near a store for Christmas, as that is really throwing money down the drain. Somehow the newspaper I work for found out about it, and I got a call from the advertising department. The man said if we're not going to buy anything for Christmas, they're not going to get advertising and they won't be able to pay me for the column. I'll be very frank with you, Mr. President, this could put me in a class with my friend Kaltenborn.

But this is neither here nor there. What I'm really writing to you about is, could I please have my WIN flag to fly over my house, because I want everybody to know how easy it is to fight inflation? -- Economically yours, A.B.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Supporting African Racism

WASHINGTON — The State Dept. has solemnly denied our story that Henry Kissinger's first tilt was toward the white supremacist nations of Southern Africa.

Although we had requested comment four days earlier, the State Dept. waited to respond until our story appeared. It "takes a little straining," said a spokesman, "to say we have tilted toward the white regimes of Africa."

This is precisely the comment our African policy documents called for. Kissinger personally selected as U.S. policy the second option in the secret National Security Memoriandum 39. The United States "would maintain public opposition to racial repression but relax political isolation and economic restrictions on the white states."

Kissinger changed American policy from "basic opposition" to "public opposition" toward racial repression in the white-ruled African countries. He changed the existing policy of "correct relations" to a "quiet" policy of more relaxed relations.

Previously, the United States had enforced a strict arms embargo against the white supremacists and kept official contacts to a minimum.

But after Kissinger changed the policy, the United States approved the sale of aircraft to South Africa; sold Portugal some Boeing 707s that were used to ferry troops to her white colonies; allowed Union Carbide to import chrome from Rhodesia; attempted to retain a consulate in Salisbury, Rhodesia; and vetoed more stringent sanctions against Rhodesia in the United Nations.

The State Dept., in all fairness, resisted the changes which were forced upon them by Kissinger's opposites in the basement of the White House. Kissinger was so disturbed at the State Dept., in fact, that he didn't trust them to communicate the new policy to South Africa. Instead, he took the extraordinary step of sending the message through an influential column in South Africa's Johannasburg Star.

"Out of the blue," the Star's Washington correspondent Ken Owen now reveals, "I was summoned to the Executive Office Building beside the White House and asked if I would use my regular column of comment on American affairs in the Star to convey a message directly to Pretoria (the South African capital)."

Owen told my associate Joe Spear that he spoke to a Kissinger aide who gave him a full briefing in the new policy. He was asked "to emphasize the necessity for Pretoria to respond in a manner which would protect President Nixon's flank from Black Africa, from Negro groups and from the professional anti-apartheid lobby."

Owen claimed that the State Dept.'s professionals regained the ascendance over African policy after Kissinger became absorbed by Middle East and Watergate.

The tilt toward the white regimes, he said, "still remains technically the American policy, but it has become a posture instead of a process."

FOOTNOTE: We have checked out Ken Owen's story with our own high- level sources who confirm its accuracy.

INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE: President Ford's barber, Milton Pitts, has sold him on a more modern look. Pitts sketched a proposed new hairline on a picture of the President in the Washington Post and showed it to Ford. The barber wanted to eliminate the shaved gap around the President's ears which went out of style a decade ago. Ford approved the sketch and is now growing a new hairline closer to the ears ... Consumer representative Carol Foreman startled President Ford at the secret White House session which spawned his new "Whip Inflation Now" program. "Mr. President," she confronted him, "you've asked us to reduce waste by five per cent, reduce driving by five per cent and increase taxes by five per cent. Could we ask the big oil companies to reduce their profits by five per cent in order to lower the cost of heating oil this winter so people won't freeze?" Ford bucked the suggestion to the ad hoc advisory group which rejected it ...

The photo spread of Susan Ford in People magazine has touched off a dispute between the White House and photographer Stanley Tretick. The famed photographer asked the White House for permission to do a photo story on the President's daughter. He was turned down, with the explanation that Susan wanted to keep a low profile while her mother was ailing. But the White House later sent the magazine a batch of pictures taken by the President's personal photographer, David Kennerley. This cut Tretick out of an estimated $1,200 and stuck the taxpayers with the photo bill. He fired off an angry letter of protest to White House press secretary Ron Nessen ... Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., dropped by the White House the other day and got into a discussion of the Michigan- Michigan State football game with President Ford. The President was completely familiar with the relative strength of both teams ... Diplomats who have called at the White House tell us that President Ford handles them with ease and confidence. He is well briefed, they say, and "shakes all the right hands" ... At a White House meeting, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto made the President beam happily by telling him that he had made "people feel he really cared."

Real Estate

By CHARLES MITCHELL

REALTOR

BOTH SIDES OF INFLATION

Owners of real estate invariably profit more than other investors during periods of inflation. But to be fair, it should be noted that inflation is a two-headed animal. What inflation gives, it also takes. Granted, rising costs tend to push the value of a home upwards.

But the expense of owning and living go up at the same time. Routine repair and maintenance costs are now climbing 5-10 per cent a year. Property taxes are edging up just as ominously. Insurance premiums increase also with the value of the house.

These expenses, however, are offset considerably by the deductions you're allowed for interest and property taxes on your income tax. Then too, you'll be paying off your home mortgage with cheaper dollars, assuming some inflation continues.

(Editor's Note: Mr. Mitchell is Past President of the Sikeston Board of Realtors and is currently serving as Vice- President of the Missouri Association of Realtors.)

Business Women's Week noted

Mayor Frank Ferrell has joined other government officials in declaring this week to be National Business Women's Week.

The proclamation states that working women constitute 33 million of the nation's working force and are striving to serve their communities, their states and their nation in civic and cultural programs.

It lists the major goals of business and professional women as helping create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economic and political problems; helping them be of greater service to their community; and furthering friendship with women throughout the world.

In signing the proclamation, Mayor Ferrell urged all citizens in Sikeston and community organizations to join in the salute to working women by encouraging and promoting the celebrating of the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to economic, civic and cultural purposes.

Proclamation signed

Denim universally popular

BLOOMFIELD — From barnyard to office and stage, denim has made its place in the fabric world. Practically all Americans, regardless of age, income bracket, lifestyle, or occupation, seem to be wearing denim.

Denim has achieved universal popularity. Also, in 1973, one of the hottest items on the Moscow black market was a pair of denim jeans selling for as high as $75.

Legend holds that denim dates back to the 15th Century and that it has not made much change in for four centuries. Nothing could be further from the truth. Denim has experienced a host of changes from the fabric used in the sails of the Santa Maria and the denim which is styled into high fashion garments for the active woman of today or the navy herringbone suit of the businessman.

Jewel Grady

Denim now being the high fashion fabric it is, it is easy to see why it is produced at a rate of 400 million yards per year.

The finished denim fabrics found in the market places are canvas weave 13 3/4 ounces per yard, brush denim, faded chambray, railroad stripe and various yarn dyed denim fabrics.

Recycled denim items have also become popular among the teenagers. Everything from tossed pillows to tote bags made of old jeans are sold or handmade.

Denim has become an extraordinary bestseller in the fabric market.

Ann Landers

Bartender should 'knock off' dancing with customers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a bartender. I am not crazy about Jerry holding this kind of a job, but he enjoys it and makes good money. He works every day and two nights a week. Our children are grown and on their own, so the two nights he works I'm at home alone.

It seems that Jerry, just because he is employed at this place, thinks he is obliged to help all the customers have a good time. It came back to me through a friend that he often dances with the women who come in and on several occasions he has driven them home.

When I asked Jerry about this he admitted it. I then demanded to know why he didn't tell me himself. He said, "I knew you wouldn't like it and I didn't want to make you mad." I then said, "If you knew it would make me mad, why did you do it?" He answered, "Because it's my job to keept the customers happy."

We are at a standstill on this issue and it is creating a lot of trouble. Every time I bring up the subject (usually when he come home late and I think he has driven a lady customer home) we get into a fight.

Tell me, Ann Landers, am I wrong when I say he should behave like a 45- year- old married man and not be dancing with women who hang around bars and driving them home? He said, "Write to Annie. She's got good sense and will set you straight." So will you please be the judge? -- Crazy Or Not?

Dear Not Crazy: I know of no cocktail lounge where the bartenders are expected to dance with customers and furnish them with transportation. This is strictly Jerry's idea of "special hospitality."

Since he knows this is creating a problem in your marriage he should knock it off. And you can tell him Annie said so.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16- year- old girl who is scared to death. I don't go steady, but there's this one boy I like better than all the others. He is really neat but he has a warped sense of humor.

We live in a courtyard apartment on the ground floor. My bedroom is in the back and there's a very nice terrace and lily pond with shrubs and bushes. This nutty kid has been coming to my bedroom window at night, sometimes rather late, and making like he is trying to get in.

I've told him to cut the comedy before my parents catch him, but he thinks it is very funny. Last night I locked my window, pulled down the shade and drew the draperies. He kept hanging around, tapping on the window for almost half an hour.

Please tell me what to do to make him stop the foolishness. If he is caught I know my folks will give me orders never to see him again. -- Shaky Shelly

Dear Shell: Doesn't that clown realize he could be arrested as a Peeping Tom or even mistaken for a prowler and shot? For heaven's sake, tell him to cancel the alley cat act before he finds himself laughing all the way to the district attorney's office.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a bachelor, age 44, who is going with a woman, 39. Zelda has never been married and has a few hangups. For example, she has never had a complete physical examination. When I tell her she really should get a checkup she says, "Why should I? I feel fine and I'M never sick."

I know Zelda reads your column every day. Will you please say something? She might listen to you. -- Z's Friend

Dear Friend: A 39- year-old woman who has never had a complete physical must have oatmeal where her brains belong. I urge her (and others who are in the same leaky boat) to stop pressing their luck and make an appointment at once. If Zelda's hangup is what I think it is, please inform her that there are many female gynecologists.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 35 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope and your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

SHS tennis team upsets Poplar Bluff

Sikeston High School's girls tennis team upset a favored Poplar Bluff team, 7-4 Monday night, handing the visitors the second setback of the season in competition on the Sikeston High School and Central Park courts.

Only last Wednesday at Poplar Bluff, the Sikeston girls had been defeated by similar 7-4 margins. The next day at Kennett, the SHS girls played to a 5-5 draw with Kennett when play had to be halted because of darkness.

The SHS season record now includes two wins, four losses and one tie.

Coach Berta Schuerenberg attributed last week's loss at Poplar Bluff to the fact that the SHS girls apparently were intimidated. "They had heard before they went over that Poplar Bluff was good and had been beaten only once. They went over there expecting to get beat," she explained.

Only seven singles matches were completed Thursday at Kennett before darkness ended the match.

"After last week, I think the girls realized they were going to have to use a little strategy and start going to the net ... Everyone really played tennis Monday night," the Sikeston coach proudly reported.

Susan Drumm, a freshman, is the only SHS player still undefeated.

Lynn Bizzell, another freshman, was moved into the No. 1 singles position Monday night, replacing Jeannie Vines, a senior side lined this week by a shoulder injury.

Coach Schuerenberg reported that Miss Bizzell played a good match although the score doesn't show it. The SHS player was defeated Nancy Gray, 8-2. "Nancy Gray is probably the strongest high school girl tenniks player I've ever seen," the coach reported.

Marilyn Neel moved into the No. 2 position and responded by playing a better game and placing her shots better, the coach said.

Another SHS girl making a comeback was Cindy Davis, who handily defeated her opponent Monday night after being off her game for several matches.

Sikeston had two new doubles teams in competition Monday night and both won their matches. Coach Schuerenberg reported that Gail Strickland and Linda Green seem to get better everytime they play together and won an outstanding doubles match Monday. The other new team was composed of Cindy Davis and Dena Livingston.

Individual scores, with Sikeston players listed first, included:

Lynn Bizzell was defeated by Nancy Gray, 8-2; Marilyn Neel was defeated by Elaine Giambelluca, 8-4; Gail Strickland won over Teresa Emerson, 8-2; Cindy Davis beat Johnna Coats, 8-2; Melissa Lea was defeated by Kathy Stafford 8-4; Mary Sikes defeated Judy Emerson in a 5-2 tiebreaker; Susan Drumm won over Carla Crosser, 8-4; and Nancy Bohannon defeated Melinda Coleman, 8-2.

In doubles play, Lynn Bizzell and Melissa Lea lost to Miss Gray and Miss Giambelluca, 8-3; Gail Strickland and Linda Green beat Teresa Emerson and Johnna Coats, 8-6; and Cindy Davis and Dena Livingston beat Kathy Stafford and Carla Crosser, 8-2.

The Sikeston team travels to Caruthersville Thursday for its final dual match of the season at 4 p.m., then hosts the district girls tournament Saturday.

SHS meets Charleston tonight

Volleyball matches split

Sikeston High School's girls volleyball teams split their matches at Poplar Bluff Monday night, winning B-team competition in straight games, 15- 11 and 15- 2, and losing the A- team encounter despite winning the first game 15- 13, when Poplar Bluff rallied to win the next two, 15- 11 and 15- 10.

In the A- team match, the scoring was almost equally divided among the Sikeston players, but Coach Jane Merrick said today that the girls' serving and execution of pattenrs were not up to par.

In the B- team match, the Sikeston girls made effective use of offensive patterns to good advantage.

Debbie Schuette was the leading scorer for the SHS B-team. During the first game seven points were gained while she was serving and 11 points were gained during her service in the second game. Pam Weddington contributed several good set- passes which set up good spike shots.

Sikeston will play Charleston tonight in a match starting at 6:30 at the Sikeston Field House.

Mrs. Wilson, a licensed practical nurse, succeeds Mrs. Florina Carlstrom, a Malden LPN whose two- year term expired.

The Hayti resident is a 1967 graudate of the Sikeston School of Nursing and currently serves on the staff of Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital. She is a member of the National Association for Practical Nurse Education and Services, the Missouri State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses and past president of the Hayti chapter of Licensed Practical Nurses.

Mrs. Wilson's term on the state board will end in June 1977.

Homemakers extension club formed in Wyatt

WYATT — A meeting was held on Oct. 16 at the home of Mrs. Bill Feezor for the purpose of organizing a homemakers extension club in the Wyatt area.

Helping Hands Homemakers Extension Club was the name chosen for the new group. Meetings will be held in the homes of members on the third Wednesday of each month at 1 p.m.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 20 at the home of Mrs. Terry Brantley, Route Three. At that time, officers will be elected and yearbooks will be filled out. Dues will be collected.

A program on poisons in the home will be presented by Mrs. Tom Boulnois.

Refreshments were served to the four members, Mrs. John Moxley, Mrs. Brantley, Mrs. Boulnois, and Mrs. Feezor, who were asked to invite at least one person to attend the next meeting.

Anyone in the Wyatt area interested in joining the new extension club may contact Mrs. Brantley by phone at 675-3275 or Mrs. Feezor at 675-3509.

Brock...AP All-star

NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Brock slid in safely on The Associated Press' 1974 Major League All-Star baseball team.

Picking up the most votes of the outfielders with 290, the St. Louis Cardinals' base-stealing wonder was among the classy group voted in Monday by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Brock, who broke Maury Wills' distinguished record of 104 steals with 118 this season, was joined in the outfield by Oakland's Reggie Jackson and Jeff Burroughs of Texas.

Jackson polled 218 votes while Burroughs had 194 to make the blue ribbon team ahead of such illustrious names as Jimmy Wynn of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta's Ralph Garr, the National League's batting champion.

The major battles in the voting took place at shortstop and for the right-handed pitcher's berth.

Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion won the shortstop position over Bert Campaneris of Oakland, 173 votes to 133.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers was named the team's right-handed pitcher, outdueling Catfish Hunter 159117. Nolan Ryan, the California Angels' strikeout king, finished a distant third with 53.

Along with his phenomenal exploits that broke Wills' record, Brock's season included a .306 batting average, 105 runs scored and 194 hits.

Jackson blasted 29 home runs, knocked in 93 runs and batted .289 for the A's while Burroughs had his finest season at Texas with 25 homers, 118 RBI and a .301 batting average.

Concepcion drove in 82 runs and batted .281 for the Reds. Jenkins, a former 20-game winner in the National League, had a 25-12 record for the Rangers and boasted a 2.82 earned run average while striking out 225 batters. Cuellar won 22 games and lost but 10 for Baltimore while posting a 3.11 ERA.

Garvey, a landslide victor over Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox, 273 to 76, batted .312 while hitting 21 home runs and driving in 111 runs. Carew, the majors' best hitter with a .364 average, also was the American League's best vote-getter with 306.

Schmidt drove in 116 runs and hit 36 homers for the Phillies. Bench blasted 33 homers and knocked in 129 runs to finish far ahead of the field at his catching position.

Hayti makes poll

Illmo- Scott City climbed to fourth and Hayti made its first appearance among the elite of the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association state football rankings this week. Both are in 2-A.

There was some shifting in the rankings this week, but the top rated teams maintained their hold on the lead in all four divisions.

Rockhurst fell from second in Class 4-A to seventh after absorbing a 14-13 weekend loss to Columbia Hickman. Hickman jumped from seventh to fifth in the poll.

Six previously unranked teams -- Oak Park in 4-A, St. Louis Country Day and Kansas City Manual in 3-A, Hayti and Pleasant Hill in 2-A and Drexel in 1-A appeared among the top 10 in their divisions this week.

The top 10 in each division in the poll, conducted by the MSWSCA.

THE RANKINGS:

Bulldog gridders pile up wins

The Varsity Bulldog's win over Dexter Friday night inspired the Junior Bulldog's to two victories Saturday over the Poplar Bluff Mules Junior teams.

The ninth grade Bulldog's scored in every quarter except the third which was fought evenly by both teams. In the first quarter tailback Don Schuette scored on a twelve yard run up the middle. David Potashnick ran over the two point conversion. Later in the quarter Mike Dewitt the Bulldog quarterback sneaked the ball across the goal from five yards out. Potashnick again ran the conversion over. Poplar Bluff came right back with a score before the quarter was over. The Mules scored on a twenty yard sweep. Point after was missed.

In the second quarter fullback Linsey Lambert scored for the Bulldog's on a one yard plunge. Run for extra point failed. Bluff ran their fullback up the middle and he scored on a thirty-eight yard run. Two point conversion good. Half time score. Bulldog's 22 Mules 14.

In the fourth Lambert again scored on a five yard run up the middle. Quarterback Dewitt ran the point after. Tailback Schuette scored later on a two yard play. Kick for point tried and missed. Bluff again scored and this time on a long run off tackle that covered 42 yards. Point after good. Final Bulldog's 36 Mules 22.

Eight grade football was played Saturday morning at Public School Stadium when the Poplar Bluff Mules invaded our area. The Mules following the winning ways of their varsity set back the Bulldog's 30-20.

In the first quarter Mule back Andre Jordan returned a Bulldog punt 65 yards to score. Randy Williams ran the two point conversion. Later in the quarter Fullback Williams of the Mules scored on a five yard plunge. The Mules Tom Meyer ran the extra point. 14-0 Mules.

In the second quarter Sikeston's Mark Heeb scored on a fifty yard counter play. Point after missed. Half Poplar Bluff 16 Sikeston 6.

The third quarter belonged to the mules. With fourth and six Mules punter received a high snap from center and was forced to run and made the first down. A Key play for Bluff since they took advantage of it and scored later in the drive when Tom Meyer went up the middle for a five yard score. Point after missed. Bluff's Andre Jordan intercepted a Sikeston pass on the Bluff forty and returned it sixty yards for the score. Williams ran the extra point over.

The fourth quarter saw the Bulldog's come alive. Bluff blocked a Sikeston punt but on their series of downs fumbled at midfield and Bulldog Rick Melton recovered. Sikeston drove and with three minutes remaining in the ballgame Sikeston's Alan Barborek scored from the one. Point after missed. The Mules fumbled on Sikeston's forty yard line and Bulldog Scott Walls picked it up and returned it to the Bluff five. Bulldog quarterback Jay Cox passed five yards to end Kerry Standridge in the end zone for the score. Cox again combined with Standridge for the two point conversion. Final Poplar Bluff 30 Sikeston 20.

The JV's of Al Holmes and Tom Horton took the Mules to the tune of 28-14. In the first quarter Bulldog halfback Paul Bean scored on a five yard run up the middle. Extra point missed. In the Second quarter Bulldog quarterback Gary Griffin scored on a quarterback sneak. Two point conversion good. Half score Bulldog 14 Bluff 0

Poplar Bluff scored twice in the third quarter but missed one conversion and ran the other over. Quarterback Griffin of Sikeston passed five yards to tight end Paul Gilbow in the end zone for a score. Two point conversion good. In the fourth quarter Bluff had to punt deep in their own territory and Sikeston blocked it and recovered in the end zone for a score. Point after missed. Final Sikeston JV's 28 Poplar Bluff 14

Big victory for SeMo

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Southeast Missouri State University's first- year head coach, Jim Lohr, was probably happier Saturday afternoon than he has been any day since last January when he was chosen for the head coaching job.

And the mood Monday morning in the coaches' offices was definitely upbeat. The occasion for the joy was Southeast Missouri State's 39-20 victory over Southwest Missouri State University of Springfield, the pre- season pick to win the MIAA championship.

The win kept the defending- champion Indians in the running for the conference title after a disappointing 21-19 loss the week before to the University of Missouri – Rolla. Southeast Missouri State now has a 3-3 record this season.

"We've been improving every week," Lohr said Monday, "but out there Saturday we played the best I've seen any team play in many years."

Lohr continued, "After we graded the films, we didn't have one player with a bad game. Oh, we made some mistakes, but all had good overall games."

The Tribe coach heaped praise of his offensive backs, but he was also extremely pleased with the play of the offensive line, whose blocking was tremendous, he said.

Lohr was also encouraged that the Tribe overcame an early deficit and also came back in the fourth quarter when the momentum seemed to swing to the Bears.

"We knew Springfield was going to have success against us both ways," Lohr explained, "but we were able to come back and do the things that you really like to see a team do. It's the ability to come back that really proves at team is good."

With 12:09 left in the fourth quarter, Southwest Missouri State's Greg Lawson dashed 36 yeards for a Bear touchdown and David Kruse's successful point after attempt narrowed the Indians' lead to 26-20.

The Tribe was unable to move the ball after the kick-off and had to punt from the 11- yard- line. The Bears took possession on the Indians' 44 and moved to the 25 before the Tribe defense held.

Two plays later running back Anthony Wallace, a 5-11, 180- pound junior from West Palm Beach, Fal., broke three tackles and ran 73 yards for a touchdown.

Late in the final period the Indians "iced the cake" with another TD.

"Wallace has come close several times this year to breaking away," said Lohr and he predicted more of the same in the days to come from the former high school All-American who arrived at Southeast Missouri State by way of Indian Hills Community College in Centerville, Iowa.

This week end Southeast Missouri State travels to St. Joseph for its first game ever against Missouri Western. It will be an afternoon contest.

The Griffons have been victorious in only one of seven outings this season. They lost Saturday, 26-13, to Benedictine College of Atchinson, Kan.

Sports in brief

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) David A. Benjamin was named squash and tennis coach at Princeton University Monday.

Benjamin is a 1966 graduate of Harvard, where he was captain of the tennis team. Sine 1970 he has worked as a head tennis pro while pursuing a doctoral degree at Harvard.

Princeton's squas team tied for the national championship last spring and its tennis squad placed 16th at the NCAA championships.

LA ROMANA, Dominican Republic (AP) — The United States, with a team consisting of Cynthia Hill, Deborah Massey and Carole Semple, will open defense of its title today when golfers from 22 countries begin competition in the sixth Women's World Amateur Golf Team Championship at the Los Cajuiles course.

The 6,212-yard, par-74 beachfront course was drenched by a brief but heavy rainstorm Monday which was accompanied by winds up to 50 miles per hour.

Cards face Skins Sunday at Busch

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The St. Louis Football Cardinals -- the only unbeaten team in the National Football League -- try for their seventh straight victory Sunday against one of their chief NFC Eastern Division challengers, the Washington Redskins. Kickoff in Busch Memorial Stadium is set for 1:05 p.m. (CST).

The Big Red stand 6-0 after holding off the surprising Houston Oilers, 31-27, last Sunday -- a day which saw the NFL's two other unbeaten teams, New England and Minnesota, go down to defeat. The Redskins, 24-3 winners ovrer the New York Giants, are 4-2, tied with Philadelphia for second place two games behind the Cardinals.

Dallas, which defeated the Eagles 31-24 at Dallas, is in fourth place with a 2-4 record and the New York Giants are 1-5.

This is the second meeting between the Big Red and Redskins and the stakes are obviously high. In the second week of the season, the Cardinals scored a 17-10 upset victory over the Skins in Washington, using big plays to big advantage.

The Cardinal points came on a 71- yard return of a fumble by defensive end Ron Yankowski, a 75- run from scrimmage by Terry Metcalf and a 46- yard field goal by Jim Bakken. With three minutes to play in the game, the Big Red defense held the Redskins on downs in a goal-to- go situation from the ten-yard line.

Against the Oilers, the Big Red defense permitted 459 total yards but coach Don Coryell's team held on for the victory. Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini completed 29 of 40 passes—for 354 yards.

The Big Red, however, outrushed the Oilers, 211-85 yards, with Terry Metcalf gaining 77 yards, Jin Otis 76 and Donny Anderson 58. Metcalf, whose 61- yard kickoff return late in the game helped the Big Red hold on to the win, had 141 yards in three kickoff returns.

Quarterback Jim Hart passed for 134 yards and two touchdowns in the game, both to wide receiver Earl Thomas for distances of 40 and six yards. Hart's 25 attempts pushed his career total to 2,067 -- a Cardinal record (old record 2,047 by Charley Johnson). Hart's 14 completions gives him 998 for his career.

Against the OIlers, the Big Red fell behind, 10-7, in the second quarter but rebounded for a 21-13 halftime lead. The margin was pushed to 31-13 with 12 minutes to play in the game before Houston made its stretch run which fell short. Despite the Oiler yardage total, the Big Red defense made several big plays. Cornerback Roger Wehrli, defensive tackle Bob Rowe and linebacker Pere Barnes recovered fumbles, and Barnes was credited with 12 unassisted tackles.

"It was a very important win over Houston," coach Don Coryell said. "The only way we're going to beat any team is with maximum effort on every play and from every players. I thought we would play a good game — and I don't know that we didn't."

The Redskin game is the first of four straight rugged encounters set for the Big Red, who must visit Dallas (Nov. 3), entertain Minnesota (Nov. 11), and visit Philadelphia (Nov. 17) in the next three weeks.

Pirates prevail No. 1

The Perryville Pirates played host to Brentwood High of St. Louis County Saturday and sent the Eagles flying by the score of 14-7.

Perryville got on the scoreboard first when Rob Cissell scored on a three yard run after a sustained drive. Ken Dicus kicked the point after. In the second quarter the Pirates were stopped on the Brentwood 25. In the second quarter Brentwood had a fourth and eight and faked punted and gained a first down. They held their momentum and kept their drive alive and scored on a five yard run (option play) by Christenson. Conversion kicked and at the half it was a 7-7 game.

The third quarter was all defense as neither team could mount a drive. In the fourth quarter Brentwood fumbled and the Pirates Charley Kramer recovered. Perryville drove from there and scored when quarterback Darrell Niswonger sneaked it across. Dicus again converted and the Pirates were a 14-7 victor. Pirate halfback Rob Cissell gained 122 yards. Cissell has rushed for over 100 yards in every ball game this season. Perryville had 12 first downs to Brentwood's 8. Perryville rushed for 218 yards and Brentwood had 143.

Hi—Previous day's high.

Blanton elected to Missouri Press office

ST. LOUIS-- Joseph R. Snyder, co- publisher of the Gallatin North Missourian, was elected president of the Missouri Press Association at that organization's 108th annual convention October 18 in St. Louis.

Snyder succeeds Bill Williams, publisher of the Thayer News, in the post. He will assume the office on Jan. 1.

Other officers elected by the Association were: Robert Blosser, Jefferson City, first vice president; Charles L. Blanton III, Sikeston, second vice president; Mrs. Lorraine Ridings, Hamilton, secretary; and Peter V. McCoy, Marshall, treasurer.

Richard Bush, editor of the Neosho Daily News, was named to the Missouri Press Association board of directors.

John Henry Cox, publisher of the Rock Port Atchison County Mail, was elected National Newspaper Association representative for the Association.

Snyder, 56, has been co-publisher of the Gallatin weekly since 1951. A native of Kansas City, he worked as a carrier- salesman for the old Kansas City Journal- Post during high school, and later went to work as a copy boy for the Kansas City Star.

Drafted into the U.S. Army in November, 1941, Snyder served for four and a half years attaining the rank of captain as a press liaison officer on the staff of General Douglas MacArthur.

Snyder owned newspapers in Natoma, Kan., and Mountain Grove, Mo., before he was recalled for 17 months active military duty during the Korean War. He entered into a partnership with W. H. "Scout" Harrison on the Gallatin newspaper upon his release from duty.

Snyder is a past president of the Northwest Missouri Press Association and the Democratic Editors of Missouri, and is a member of the Kansas City Press Club and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Snyder and his wife, Katherine, are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Kathy Clancy of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Cindy Fessler of Macon.

Firemen called to trailer court

Firemen were called to the Ferrell Trailer Court Monday about 3 p.m. when they were told a trailer was burning.

Firemen said the blaze was only a grassfire and no damage was reported.

6 treated

Six accident patients were treated and released Monday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Brown fined

NEW MADRID — Perry Brown was fined $25 in Police Court this morning on a peace disturbance charge, according to Marshal Virgil "Flip" Dees.

State fuel agency to be revamped

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Fuel Allocation Board, a stop-gap agency set up to meet the energy crisis last winter, will be revised, expanded and transferred to a new state department.

It will go to the Department of Natural Resources from the state Public Service Commission, Gov. Christopher S. Bond and natural resources director James L. Wilson said Monday.

Wilson recently was named chairman of the Missouri Energy Council, a citizen's advisory group which recommended establishment of the allocation board.

Bill Atchley, chairman of the 22-member energy council, is expected to remain on the council. He is tne governor's science advisor.

Charles Valier, the governor's legislative aide, is drafting a new executive order assigning the allocation board to Wilson's department. Wilson said the changeover probably will be completed by January.

The public service commission's primary job is regulation of utilities. Its new role in the energy and gasoline allocation field last winter drew the PSC into a legislative controversy over bills to give it, the revenue department or a separate commission, authority to monitor and inventory fuel supplies. The bills failed.

The workload of both the allocation board and energy council has decreased with the easing of the fuel shortage, and Wilson said, "we can put it to use in other areas, like research," during slack times.

Reorganization of state government also made it logical to change the makeup of the allocation board, Wilson said, because some of the current members are now directors of agencies that have been made subordinate to other agencies.

"The biggest source of energy is from minerals — natural resources," Wilson said in discussing why the state's energy efforts were assigned to his department.

He also noted that there are proposals in Washington to change the name of the Department of Interior to the Department of Energy and Natural Resources.

The emphasis also is being switched from technical services to administration, wilson said.

"The governor recognized that there were six or seven different departments engaged in energy in one form or another," he said. "Much of the research is going to have longrange impact rather than shortrange."

Wilson, formerly the state parks director, said he has suggested that six department directors make up the allocation board and serve on the energy council.

They will be Wilson; Commissioner of Administration Robert James; Agriculture Director James Boillot; Alfred Sikes, director Consumer Affairs, Regulation, and Licensing; Revenue Director James Spradling, and Public Safety Director Michael Garrett.

The change removes transportation representation — other than Garrett, who has the highway patrol — from the allocation board and the council. However, Wilson indicated a representative of the highway department might be added to the council for the allocation board.

Wilson said he didn't expect to replace anyone now on the energy council except where there is duplication. Garrett, for example, will represent the adjutant general's office as public safety director.

The allocation board now is made up of chairman James Mauze, the PSC chairman; Boillot; state health director Herbert R. Domke; James; Guy Jaffe, director of Commerce and Industrial Development; education commissioner Arthur Mallory; Harvey Tettlebaum of the attorney general's office and W.E. Williamson, superintendent of the Bi-State Transit System.

Since the PSC has been assigned to Sikes' department, Wilson said, he didn't expect Mauze to remain on the allocation bard. But Mauze is expected to remain on the energy council.

Robert L. Gilmore, secretary of the PSC, served as executive secretary of the five-employe allocation board. Wilson said he would be replaced by a fulltime director to receive about $17,000 a year.

Wilson said he would like to add more allocation board employes.

The Federal Energy Administration has earmarked $600,000 to Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas for energy uses.

Missouri will get up to $212,000 of that, and the state must provide $120,000 in matching money. The board already has $65,000 for this fiscal year, and the rest of the $120,000 in matching money is represented in expenses of other state departments on energy-related problems, Wilson said.

s "The federal money will come with very little rope attached to it," Wilson said.

BRPC receives impact statement

MALDEN-- Lloyd Hogan, chairman of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission's A- 95 Project Notification and Review Committee, has announced that the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission has received a copy of the draft environmental impact statement from the U. S. Army Engineer District, Vicksburg, Miss., for the Mississippi River levees and channel improvement.

Hogan also said the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission will have a copy of the environmental impact statement in its office for review by the public until Nov. 8.

Persons interested in reviewing this document and having their comments included in the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission's comments, should contact the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission in Malden. The Commission will submit its comments on the environmental impact statement on Nov. 8.

Marshall admitted to hospital after mishap

Raymond Kelly Marshall, 49, of 403 William St. was admitted to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for observation following a two-car accident at 11:30 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Ruth and South West streets.

Police said the accident occurred when Marshall's car, traveling south on South West, was struck in the right side by a car being driven east on Ruth Street by Alice Marie Skelton, 23, of 306 Lee, East Prairie.

Miss Skelton told police she did not see the yield sign and did not see the Marshall car until it was too late to avoid the accident.

Marshall was admitted to the hospital for observation after complaining of pains in the back, head, legs and chest.

Police said no arrests were made.

Dexter home damaged by fire

DEXTER— The Dexter fire department was called at 4:15 p.m. Sunday to a fire at the home of Larry Rehm on Chalk Bluff Trail.

Chief Al Banken said the fire apparently started in a vent over the kitchen stove and did considerable damage to the sink, cabinets and ceiling. Banken said a neighbor, Richard Henderson, kept the fire under control with a dry powder extinguisher until the fire truck arrived.

Banken said the fire department used a smoke ejector to draw most of the smoke out of the house and lessen the smoke damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Rehm were not home at the time of the blaze.

Stoddard burglars busy

BLOOMFIELD— Two homes in Stoddard County were forcibly entered over the weekend according to the Stoddard County sheriff's department.

The home of Robert Harrison of Fisk was entered sometime Saturday night. A color television set values at $700 and an eight- track tape player were taken.

Sunday night the home of Henry McKay, west of Dexter, was entered and a color television set values at $700 was taken.

Investigation of both incidents is under way.

Reading workshop set

CAPE GIRARDEAU— A reading workshop, titled Make It and Take It, will be presented Oct. 24 by the Southeast Missouri Council of Reading and the Southeast Missouri Department of Reading, at SeMo State University. The program, scheduled from 9 a.m. to 2:15 p.m., will deal with reading games and instructional materials.

PERSPECTIVES- A LOOK AT DRUG PREVENTION

UPPERS

Amphetamines account for approximately 1/4 of all medical prescriptions for mood-altering drugs in the United States. People use amphetamines to keep awake over prolonged periods or for "energy boosts." This cycle can continue until a person is physically exhausted.

Many of the "legal" drugs are used for weight reduction, with or without the supervision of a doctor. Paradoxically, stimulants are also used in the treatment of hyper-active children. "On the street," these same medicines are known as SPEED.

Depression and lethargy usually follow the discontinuation of amphetamines. Psychiatric complications can last long beyond the period of drug activity.

THE RYATTS by Jack Elrod

Today in U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 22, the 295th day of 1974. There are 70 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, President John Kennedy ordered U.S. air and naval forces to quarantine Cuba after concluding that Soviet missile bases were being built on the island.

On this date —

In 1721, Peter the Great took the title of Czar of all Russia.

In 1859, Spain declared war against Moors in Morocco.

In 1907, a run on a New York bank set off a financial crisis known as the panic of 1907.

In 1942, during World War II, the British air force pounded the Italian port of Genoa.

In 1953, France granted independence to the Indochina kingdom of Laos.

Ten years ago: Funeral services were held in New York for the 31st American president, Herbert Hoover.

One year ago: The world-renowned cellist, Pablo Casals, died at the age of 96 in Puerto Rico.

Today's birthdays: Former Vietnam Emperor Bao Dai is 61 years old. Composer Benjamin Britten also is 61.

Thought for today: Marriage is an adventure, like going to war — Gilbert Chesterton, English writer, 1874-1936.

The town of Holland, Mich. recently celebrated the 125th anniversary of its founding by Dutch immigrants which also corresponded with the town's 45th annual "Tulip Time Festival", attracting thousands of tourists. The yearly festival culminates in the planting of hundreds of tulip bulbs and centers around the townspeople's Dutch heritage. At right, "Klompen dancers" practice folk dances on Windmill Island in authentic costumes and klompen (wooden shoes).

Sure was a nice day yesterday and, according to the prediction for all zones of Missouri, it will be more of the same over the weekend. Yesterday's high went to 74 and it dropped to 39 last night -- a bit warmer than the two previous nights.

Mrs. J. A. Shain and son and daughter- in- law, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shain, jr., and Mrs. Dave Reese left this morning for Toledo, Ohio, after receiving word of the death of Mrs. Marie Harris, formerly Mrs. Marie Chambliss, who is the mother of Mrs. Shain, sr., and a sister- in- law of Mrs. Reese.

Five babies were reported born at the Delta Community Hospital Friday. A baby boy to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher, 609 Sikes avenue, Sikeston; Twin girls to Mr. and Mrs. Verne Long of Sikeston; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perry of New Madrid are parents of a baby girl; It's a baby girl for Mr. and Mrs. Landis Hill of Charter Oak; and a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Grissom of East Prairie.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holden and baby daughter, Paula Ruth, returned to Sikeston recently from Flint, Mich., and plan to make their home here. Mr. Holden returned to Flint where he is still employed.

Sikeston encountering a porous East Prairie forward wall, had no difficulty here Friday night in walloping the Eagles 66- 0 for the 11th straight Bulldog gridiron decision.

What's the law?

The case of the missing minor

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Seena went house hunting and found one that was not only within her price range, but was a house with which she truly fell in love. Particularly impressive was a large mirror that hung over the fireplace.

Murmoring "Mirror, mirror on the wall, this is the fairest deal of all," Seena signed a contract to buy the house from its owner, Mr. Humble.

On the day the deal closed, however, and Seena moved in, she discovered to her chagrin that Mr. Humble had removed the impressive mirror. Furious, Seena sued him for either the return of the mirror or its value.

"The mirror was part of the house," Seena complained in court. "By remvoing it, Mr. Humble took my property."

"That's not so," retorted Mr. Humble. "The mirror wasn't included as part of the sale. Just because it hung the wall, it was no more part of the house than my mother- in- law who also hung around."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require Mr. Humble to pony up the mirror or its value?

This how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that articles of household furnishings which can be removed without material injury to the building are generally not part of a house that passes to a new owner unless the contract of sale specifically provides otherwise.

Missourians call for land buying review

WASHINGTON — Three Missouri members of Congress have called on the General Accounting Office to undertake a complete review of the Army Corps of Engineers' land- buying policies, which they said were the subject of a growing number of complaints from Missourians.

In a letter to Comptroller General Elmer Staats, Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton and Rep. William Randall said the complaints ranged from dissatisfaction with appraisals to disputes over what properties would or would not be acquired.

Citing the case of Deepwater, Mo., the three legislators said the Corps of Engineers plan was to buy most of the city's residential property but not the streets or downtown areas.

"In a letter to us," they said, "the Corps concedes that 'after reservoir project land acquisition, the business area will be a veritable peninsula, and will be one, in fact, during those infrequent times when the reservoir reaches the full flood pool elevation.'

"The Corps also concedes that 'the area could degrade into a health and safety hazard' but it insists, nevertheless, that it has no authority to acquire the affected properties."

Noting that in some cases "It is the law, not the Corps of Engineers, which is at fault," the congressmen requested the GAO to advise them on what legislative as well as administrative changes were needed "to help assure more

John Mercer Langston, elected clerk in 1855 of Brownhelm township, Lorain County, Ohio, was the first Negro to win elective office in the United States.

Owners protest proposal

NEW MADRID-- A group of property owners met with the City Council Monday night and requested the council to take action on a petition signed by more than 75 per cent of the affected owners protesting a council proposal to resurface and install curbs and guttering.

The petition from the property owners along Vandenvender, Pinnell, Russell, Brush Prairie, Hunter, Tennessee, Missouri, First and Second streets had been submitted at an Oct. meeting, and the council had referred it to City Administrator Don Lloyd for validation of signatures.

The council agreed that the signatures were valid and that the objections were primarily because of the projected cost of $8.90 per foot. An alternate plan, with no curbs, guttering and ditches at a cost of less than $4 per foot, was being studied by the council, the group was told.

Boyd Masterson, David Mann and Booker Paul requested that the project be discontinued, as now proposed, and any new plans be resubmitted to the property owners.

The council did not drop the project but agreed not to exceed a cost of $8 per foot.

Ross Hill told the council he objected to being charged $2.25 at his barber shop and $2.25 at his home for trash and garbage collection when he only had trash at his residence.

Aldermen George Dawson and Joe Hunter and Lloyd were appointed to a committee to hear complaints and to recommend adjustments on trash disposal charges.

Hunter and Bill Boyd were appointed as commissioners for the demolition of buildings that have been abandoned and are in disrepair. Other members will be the mayor, fire chief and city marshal.

Lloyd told the council the new city dog pound had been completed and that Joe Hill had been appointed dog catcher.

Appointments of Ronnie Adams and Paul Haubold Jr. as policemen were approved.

The council agreed to allow the Commission for Municipal Pooling Services to bid on behalf of the city for the purchase of natural gas facilities within the city from Associated Natural Gas Co. The commission consists of about 20 Bootheel cities that have given notice of their intent to bid on the facilities. Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. of Blytheville, Ark., was ordered in 1971 to divest itself of the gas facility by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Anderson returned to jail

CHARLESTON— Willie Lee Anderson, 23, of Wyatt, who was arrested Monday in Cairo, Ill., waived extradition and was returned to the Mississippi County jail by Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith to face a burglary and stealing charge.

The charge against Anderson involves a break-in about 2 p.m. Sunday at the Nathaniel Severe home in Wyatt and the theft of a color television set and a portable radio. The television was recovered Monday in Unity, Ill., and the radio was found at a home in Cairo.

Anderson remains in custody under $3,000 bond and will appear for arraignment Thursday in Magistrate Court.

World News in Brief

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev may have a get-acquainted meeting, possibly in the Siberian city of Vladivostok, a senior American official says.

Plans for such a get-together are under consideration and will be decided upon within 10 days, the official said. Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger stopped here briefly on Monday.

"It will be a very brief meeting, if it takes place," said the official. He added that more substantive talks will be held when Brezhnev visits the United States next summer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Walter T. Kerwin Jr. has been chosen as the next vice chief of staff for the Army. Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger announced Monday that President Ford approved the appointment of the 57-year-old native of West Chester, Pa., to succeed Gen. Fred C. Weyand, who was promoted to chief of staff.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Gamble, a millionaire soap heir, has been fined $10,500 and ordered to devote one day a week to wildlife conservation after being convicted of transporting illegally killed game.

Gamble, the 36-year-old great-grandson of the cofounder of Proctor & Gamble, was also placed on three years probation by U.S. District Judge Robert Peckham on Monday.

Peckham told Gamble to work one day a week for a year with a conservation group and not hunt big game for three years.

OTTAWA (AP) — United Farm Workers President Cesar Chavez has canceled a Canadian campaign for support of his union's grape and lettuce boycott because of illness.

A spokesman said Monday that Chavez was recovering in a California hospital from a back ailment and exhaustion. He was to start the tour today in Sydney, Nova Scotia. Canada is the largest importer of California-grown produce.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon would get only 12 per cent of the vote if he ran for the Senate against Democratic incumbent John V. Tunney, a Mervin Field poll shows.

A survey of 1,089 California voters showed if Nixon were paired with Tunney in 1976, the former chief executive would lose by a 58-point margin, 70 per cent to 12 per cent with 18 per cent undecided.

Tunney outpolled Nixon 43 per cent to 26 per cent among Republicans, with the remainder of those polled undecided.

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — An 11 p.m. curfew on persons under age 18 was imposed by the city council, with supporters citing vandalism, drug traffic and related crimes as the reasons.

The vote Monday was 11 to 1. The curfew takes effect immediately.

Rape suspects in custody

CAIRO, Ill. — A Mound City man is being held in Pulaski County Jail and a Clinton, Ky. man in Mississippi County Jail in Charleston, Mo., after they allegedly criminally assaulted a 17-year-old woman, according to Pulaski County Sheriff, Raymond Calvin.

Sheriff Calvin said the two are being held on multiple charges.

Robert McElmurray, 24, of Mound City is being held in Mound City and Donald Jones, 34, of Clinton, is being held in Charleston.

Sheriff Calvin said Jones allegedly picked up a 21-year old man and a 17-year-old woman hitchhiking in Kentucky. He then took them to a tavern in Cairo and there picked up McElmurray. The car then proceeded north from Cairo on Interstate 57, according to Sheriff Calvin.

When the car approached Anna, McElmurray reportedly pulled out a knife and forced the 21-year-old man from the car.

Then McElmurray and Jones were alleged to have criminally assaulted the 17-year-old woman.

When approaching Pulaski, Jones let the woman and McElmurray out of the car, Calvin said.

The 21-year-old man flagged a car to Anna and reported the incident to the Anna police.

The car was spotted going south through Cairo and a high speed chase started which went into Missouri and did not end until the Missouri Highway Patrol forced the car off the road.

McElmurray is being charged with one count of assault and two counts of rape and Jones with one count of rape, according to Sheriff Calvin.

Firemen called to Dexter home

DEXTER — Firemen answered a call at 9:45 a.m. Monday to a fire which seriously damaged the Rex Anthony home at 338 N. Poplar St.

The family was not at home at the time, and the fire was reported by a neighbor, Mrs. Florence Anderson.

The cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Barnwarming dance planned

BLOOMFIELD — The Bloomfield High School chapters of Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America have scheduled their annual barnwarming dance Friday night.

The activities will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Covered walkways to be constructed

BLOOMFIELD — The Bloomfield R-14 school board voted Monday night to proceed with construction of covered walkways between the school buildings.

The project is a portion of improvements to be financed under a $30,000 bond issue approved by voters in May 1973.

Other improvements scheduled include four elementary classrooms for children with learning disabilities and space for a library and art department to be added to the high school building.

Lilbourn man critically injured

LILBOURN — Sammie Banks, 45, of Route One was still in the intensive care unit today at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., where he was taken after receiving critical injuries Saturday when his truck was struck by a Frisco train near Lilbourn.

Banks was first taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, then transferred to the Memphis hospital.

The accident occurred at 5:30 p.m. Saturday when a truck driven by Banks stalled on the railroad track and was struck broadside by a diesel freight train. The accident occurred at a gravel crossing one mile south of Lilbourn.

Parent-teacher conferences set

NEW MADRID— Personal conferences between kindergarten parents and teachers are scheduled for Thursday, and Friday, in New Madrid R-1 Schools.

Schools are utilizing parent conferences as a means of securing home-school cooperation.

Parents of each kindergarten child will be given a scheduled time to come for consultation. Conferences will be held during one evening for employed parents who find it impossible to come during the day.

Purpose of the educators is to have a continuous program of informing parents and encouraging them to work in cooperation with the school. School officials, say they believe Kindergarten Parent-Teacher Conferences as replacements for report cards are steps in the right direction.

Three receive minor injuries in accidents

Three persons received minor injuries in two area traffic accidents Monday and today, according to the highway patrol.

Two Charleston men were injured in a one-car accident at 2:50 a.m. today on Route K, three miles south of Wyatt.

The patrol said the accident occurred when a northbound car, driven by Charles Fitzgerald, 19, was traveling at a high rate of speed, pursued by a Cairo, Ill. policeman.

The Fitzgerald car lost control on a curve, ran off the road, overturned several times and struck a utility pole.

Fitzgerald and a passenger in the car, Coy Fitzgerald, 23, received minor injuries and both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Cairo police were reportedly pursuing the Fitzgerald car for a moving violation, but authorities in Cairo said no official report had been filed.

Shirley Hatley, 21, of Poplar Bluff received minor injuries at 1:55 p.m. Monday on Highway 67 in Poplar Bluff when the brakes failed on the southbound car she was driving and it struck the rear of a parked state highway department truck parked on a bridge and pointed south.

She was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Asked if he had anything to declare at customs. Oscar Wilde, docking in New York City on his first visit to America in 1882, shocked the customs' inspector by replying coolly, "Nothing but my genius."

Aged woman to wed 29-year-old man

LLay, Wales (AP) — A Welsh coal miner's young son who says he is engaged to Happy Rockefeller's aged millionaire aunt Rachel Fitler expressed fear today that the publicity about their May-and-December romance would "blow the whole thing."

"When she sees the way the story has blown up here, anything could happen," said 29year-old Michael Wilson after the London papers gave splash play to his announcement Monday that he and Miss Fitler would be married around Christmas.

Wilson told newsmen they met last January while he was working as a butler at the Breakers Hotel in Palm Beach, Fla. He said they got engaged in May and his parents visited Miss Fitler in the United States.

"We have a genuine deep affection for each other, but the papers have made me look like a golddigger. She's a very nice private person, but how do you think she'll feel seeing me all over the front pages?

"She could easily get the wrong impression from what she sees in the papers. How do you explain something like that? She might call it off now. I don't know."

Miss Fitler lives in Philadelphia, and sources there said she is 77.

She was not immediately available for comment, but a spokesman for her niece's husband, Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, said: "I heard that such a story was coming from Wales. I don't know anything about it. I think it may be correct, but I just don't know."

Miss Fitler was quoted in a British newspaper as saying, "Although I've never been married, I've had plenty of offers. Now that I'm settled I feel like giving it a try."

On the age gap, she said "Michael doesn't seem to think it will affect our relationship."

Wilson said he didn't want to talk about the difference in their ages. "I don't think the gap in our ages is at all important.

signs on every corner in the city."

The rest of the council agreed with Vancil.

"You heard what your aldermen said," Conner said to Rudisill. "There's nothing I can do about it."

"Last meeting they voted not to put up the signs, that's all I can say," Conner said.

In other business, renewal of a beer license for the Playboy Lounge was approved, a decision was made to purchase a list from the state of Missouri of all state licenses sold and to whom, a committee was appointed to consider drafting an ordinance restricting the use of horses and motorcycles in the city parks and an area in northwest Dexter was rezoned from agricultural use to a mobile home zone.

Cape Girardeau Ramada Inn.

A port authority would be an economic boom to both Scott and Cape Girardeau counties, he said.

Members of the two county committees toured the Greenville, Miss., and President's Island, Tenn., port authorities last week, Lankford said.

The trip was made to gain information about establishing a port authority, he said.

Scott County committee members on the tour were Jack Hunter of Sikeston; associate county judge-elect Melvin Gluek of Chaffee; E. Mike Pfefferkorn of Chaffee; C. B. Taylor of Morley, chairman of the committee; Raymond Roth of Illmo; Billy Wheeler of Scott City; and Lankford.

Two representatives of the state health department told the court Monday that they were pleased with progress being made in operation of the county sanitary landfill.

The state agency has been critical of the landfill because it had not been kept up to state specifications.

Lankford said the landfill has not been approved because more work needs to be done. However, he said the two men had viewed the landfill and complimented the court on the work being done to correct deficiencies.
